

TARBOROUGH.

TUESDAY, JULY 10, 1832.

Congress.—We are compelled to omit our usual abstract of the proceedings of Congress. The following, however, is a brief summary of the principal business transacted.

In the Senate, a resolution submitted by Mr. Clay, requesting the President to recommend a day of prayer, &c. to be observed on account of the Asiatic Cholera, was agreed to, 30 votes to 13. Messrs. Brown and Mangum voting in the negative.

A resolution from the House proposing to adjourn on the 9th inst. was laid on the table.

The bill for appropriating the proceeds of the Public lands to such objects of Internal Improvement, Education, and Colonization of persons of color, as the States should respectively prefer, was passed and sent to the House, where it was laid on the table, or in other words rejected.

In the House of Representatives, on the 28th ult. the Tariff bill was passed by a vote of 132 to 65. The members from this State voted as follows: Yeas—Messrs. Barringer, Bethune, Conner, Hall, Hawkins, W. B. Shepard, A. H. Shepperd, Speight. Nays—Messrs. Branch, Carson, McKay, Rencher. Mr. Williams, who voted the day previous for ordering the bill to a third reading, was absent on its final passage. The reduction of the revenue by this bill is variously estimated at from four and a half to ten millions.

The bill to re-charter the U. S. Bank, was passed on the 3d inst. by a vote of 107 to 85, with an amendment of the 6th section, permitting the Bank to retain the branches now established; it was immediately sent to the Senate, which body concurred in the amendment of the House on the same day—so that the bill only waits the signature of the President to become a law.

The Cholera.—This terrific disease it appears, is rapidly spreading through the country. On Monday of last week it was discovered in the city of New York, said to be of domestic origin—and on Tuesday, 12 cases and 11 deaths were reported. It has also appeared at Albany and Troy, in the State of New York—and at Erie and Pittsburg, in Pennsylvania. The disease is said to be abating in Montreal and Quebec.

National Anniversary.—The Anniversary of our Independence was celebrated in this place on Wednesday last, by our citizens and visitors, in an enthusiastic and spirited manner seldom equalled and never surpassed. The day was ushered in by the discharge of 13 rounds of cannon and the ringing of the bells, at which time the National Flag was hoisted on a huge hickory pole, erected for that purpose in front of the Court House. The Tarborough Guards paraded at sunrise on Sycamore Square, and marched to the Old Church, where prayers were offered up to the throne of grace by Peter P. Lawrence, of the Baptist Church, after which they were dismissed. The Guards again paraded at 9 o'clock. A PROCESSION, consisting of the Tarborough Guards, the Edgecombe Troop of Cavalry, and citizens; was formed on Sycamore Square, under the command of Gen. L. D. Wilson, Marshal of the Day. The Procession moved to the Old Church, where a numerous auditory comprising the beauty and fashion of the place and vicinity, awaited their arrival. At 11 o'clock the Declaration of Independence was read in a feeling and impressive manner by Dr. Edwin Dancy, and an eloquent and patriotic ORATION delivered by Benj. R. Hines, Esq. A peculiar zest was given to the ceremonies, by the occasional introduction of several patriotic Odes, sung by the Ladies present, accompanied with instrumental music. At 1 o'clock, the Guards fired 13 rounds of small arms and twenty-four of cannon. At 2 o'clock, A DINNER was prepared at Spout Spring, by Mr. C. Windhom, which was numerously attended. The utmost hilarity prevailed, and after the company present had devoured a vast quantity of "the creature comforts of life," the "feast of reason and the flow of soul" was introduced in a number and variety of toasts, which, together with the accompanying correspondence has been kindly furnished us for publication.

REGULAR TOASTS.

1. The day we celebrate.
2. The President of the United States and Heads of Departments.
3. The Governor of the State of North Carolina.
4. The memory of George Washington.
5. Charles Carroll of Carrollton: the last though not least of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.
6. The Constitution: Wisdom effected it, and patriotic blood cemented it. May its benign influence pervade the world.
7. Lafayette: The companion and compatriot of Washington—the same in every situation and in every clime.
8. The Democratic Republicans: May they triumph over the hydra-headed factions opposed to them.
9. The Tariff and Nullification: the Scylla and Charybdis of our Union.
10. Our army, navy and militia.
11. Our Union: transmitted to us by Divine Providence for our mutual benefit and national glory—may the anathemas of the world rest on him who shall dare to sever so sacred a compact.
12. The State of North Carolina: the first to declare her independence, and among the first to instruct her representatives to sign the Declaration we celebrate.
13. The American Fair: In peace, objects of constant admiration—in war, "a guide to our feet and a lamp to our path."

VOLUNTEER TOASTS.

- By Capt. Wm. H. Robards, (President of the Day.) Mr. Clay's philanthropy: He would emancipate the slaves of the South, and enslave their masters.
- By Dr. H. L. Irwin, (Vice President.) Our daughters are fair and our sons are brave.
- By Gen. L. D. Wilson, (Marshal.) The Union of the States: What God hath joined together let no man put asunder. 6 cheers.
- By B. R. Hines, Esq. (Orator.) The Edgecombe Troop of Cavalry & Tarborough Guards: In peace may the olive branch be their emblem; in war, their colors nailed to the mast. 6 cheers.
- By Dr. Edwin Dancy, (Reader of the Declaration of Independence.) To the people at large: May that unanimity of sentiment, that love of liberty and patriotism, that brotherly affection which was manifested by the signers of the Declaration of Independence on the 4th day of July, 1776, be ever prevalent—that all discord and political strife may be forever banished from amongst us.
- By Nathaniel Bilbry, (a revolutionary soldier.) The thirteen stripes and thirteen stars. 3 cheers.
- By Joseph Barrington, (a revolutionary soldier.) The Tarborough Guards: to you, sons of American glory, our gray hairs and trembling voice, as in duty bound, are proud to acknowledge your patriotic principles—principles which none but the brave are worthy to enjoy. Let patriotism be your leading principle, to knock down and bind the bulls, the proud roaring bulls of tyranny and oppression, until the thunder of your patriotic cannon knock off their horns. 3 cheers.

By Daniel Knight. Joseph Barrington and Nathaniel Bilbry: two revolutionary soldiers whose presence honors this festive board. 12 cheers.

By John H. Matthewson, Esq. The Orator of the Day: May the people duly appreciate his talents and his virtues. 3 cheers.

By Dr. H. L. Irwin. The Reader of the Declaration of Independence: justly entitled to our admiration and esteem. 3 cheers.

By Daniel Knight. The Marshal of the Day.

By Dr. Jas. J. Philips. Our Union and our country: Equal rights and equal privileges.

By Isaac B. Braddy. The United States of America: Protection, peace and prosperity at home, and justice abroad.

By Thomas B. Cherry. May the free and independent sons of America protect their liberty and support their Union, whilst the nations of the East are fluctuating like waves, and expiring like meteors in a troubled sky. 3 cheers.

By Dr. Cummings. The President of the United States, the Hero of New Orleans: May he long live in the hearts of his countrymen, and unborn millions be taught his virtues. 9 cheers.

By Peter R. Hines, Esq. May the sages and patriots of the revolution ever live in the hearts of their countrymen. 3 cheers.

By Seth Little. Lafayette: In the cabinet, in the field, and in the dungeon, the same great champion of human freedom—may the French people love him as they ought.

By Wm. J. Andrews. Gen. George Washington: the father of this enlightened nation.

By John W. Cotten, (a member of the Guards.) Joseph R. Lloyd: A man of talents, honor and integrity—we are proud to own him as our Captain.

By Cornelius C. Van Noorden. Gen. Washington and Henry Clay: The friends of their country.

By Wm. Sutton, Esq. Henry Clay: A man of splendid talents, but depraved principles.

By Henry Hyman. Here's to Gen. Andrew Jackson: The military chieftain, the proud warrior, the able and honest statesman.

By Maj. Eth'd Gray. Agriculture: The fountain of wealth.

By Wilson Sessoms. May our liberty never get worse, and the hinges of freedom never rust.

By Isaac B. Braddy. May the Tariff be modified and the South reconciled.

By Francis P. Redmond. George Washington and his brave followers.

By Gen. L. D. Wilson. The Star Spangled Banner: May it ever wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave. 9 cheers.

By George Howard. The citizens of these United States: May each succeeding Anniversary find them "as a band of brothers joined." 3 cheers.

By Wm. R. Debnam. The fair of Tarborough: May they ever flourish like the green bay tree, planted by the rivers of water.

By Wm. Bong. Freedom of speech, and freedom of the press—the adamant pillars of liberty. 3 cheers.

By James P. Farnald. Washington: May his memory be cherished so long as the river on whose banks he rests, shall flow to the sea.

By Wm. Norfolk. The ladies of Tarborough.

By James M. Redmond. The State of North Carolina: Firm, independent, and steadfast in her principles.

By Arthur K. Barlow. The way-faring man: as we travel through life may we live well on the road.

By Cornelius C. Van Noorden. The memory of the departed heroes and sages of the revolution: They live in the hearts of their countrymen. 3 cheers.

By John G. Washington. Gen. Jackson: May no sorrow distress his days—may no grief canker his nights—may the pillow of peace kiss his cheek, and the pleasures of imagination attend his dreams. 6 cheers.

By Doctor Mobry. The Navy: The nation's strength and bulwark to its rights. 3 cheers.

By William Jones, (of the Edgecombe Cavalry.) In the hour of peril, may we ever say: "Come one, come all, this rock shall fly, From its base as soon as I."

By Weeks Parker. The Tarborough and Hamilton Rail Road: though at present abandoned, may the capitalists of Edgecombe at no distant day awake to their best interests.

By Col. Joshua Pender. The Union of the States: May it ever be regarded as sacred as the union of the sexes. 6 cheers.

By Daniel Knight. The Tarborough Guards: the ladies may rest secure under their protection, for they are determined that no brutal butchery like that of Southampton shall ever ensanguine their bed chambers with their innocent blood, so long as a "Guard" shall be left to pull a trigger. 12 cheers.

By John G. Washington. May the ravages of war be averted from the happy realms of America.

By Alex. S. Cotten. The Hickory tree: May its branches never wither.

By Cornelius C. Van Noorden. The heroes of the revolution: the few who remain remind us of their value, and admonish, not lightly to estimate the boon they have conferred upon us. 6 cheers.

By Francis P. Redmond. The French and American people: We shall never forget the hour that tried men's souls—long may they prosper.

By John F. Hughes, Esq. The Hon. Philip P. Barbour: Let one generous glass be filled to overflowing, at this festive board, to bear proud testimony to his enlightened democratic principles and attachment to the Union.

By Benj. R. Hines, Esq. Martin Van Buren: the most resplendent galaxy in the political heavens—with an eye that never winks and a wing that never tires, he has manfully and successfully labored in the cause of his country. May the friends of democracy not deceive themselves.

By Daniel Knight. Martin Van Buren: the flower of the North—he holds out the olive branch to the South.

By John G. Washington. May the wings of liberty never shed a feather.

By L. H. Hearn. Thomas Jefferson: his memory is embalmed in the hearts of his countrymen—his fame is as lasting as time.

By Wilson Sessoms. The ladies of Tarborough and the Edgecombe volunteers: may they live for many years.

By Capt. Wm. H. Robards. Native genius: we can boast but one poet, and he's a clever fellow—success to the Tarborough bard. 6 cheers.

By Simmons B. Staton. Jackson, Van Buren and the Constitution.

By Benj. R. Hines, Esq. John A. Cameron, Esq. The noble manner in which he defended the cause of his countrymen at Vera Cruz, entitles him to our grateful thanks. Splendid in talents, faithful in the execution of public trust, profound in law and honest in private relations—we are proud to own him as a North Carolinian, and are rejoiced at his late appointment. If Jackson was ever wrong, he's not wrong now. 3 cheers.

By John G. Washington. May the freedom of America be as lasting as the eternal rock of ages.

By John H. Matthewson. Jackson and Jackson's friend: the true friend of his country.

By Maj. W. K. Bulluck. May our independence live as long as the trees grow, or the rivers run.

By Gen. L. D. Wilson. Education.

By Dr. J. J. Philips. The colors which wave over the Tarborough Guards: may the hands ever continue fair which wrought them.

By Col. B. H. Bell. Luck and prosperity to us all.

By Col. Joshua Pender. Hickory, and his right hand man, Van Buren.

By John W. Cotten. The ladies of Tarborough: justly celebrated for their beauty, amiability and accomplishments. 6 cheers.

By Geraldus Shurley. Jackson and Jackson's friends.

By Wm. Norfolk. May the star-spangled banner wave thro' all impending danger.

By James P. Farnald. The American fair: their smiles the rich reward of every toil.

By Daniel Knight. Old Hickory:

"Freemen cheer the Hickory tree, In storms its boughs have sheltered thee, O'er freedom's land its branches wave, 'Twas planted on the lion's grave."

By Theodore C. Hearn. Agriculture, the most pleasant as well as the most honorable occupation.

By Andrew Anderson. The day we celebrate, the anniversary of American independence: may our freedom from foreign despotism annually excite the fervor of gratitude, the enthusiasm of patriotic virtues, and strengthen the Union of our Republic. 3 cheers.

By David Barlow. By and through the bravery of the people they have gained independence: may they ever retain it.

By Gen. L. D. Wilson. The patriots of '76.

By Wm. Sutton, Esq. May the fires of liberty forever blaze on the altars of American independence.

By John H. Matthewson. More wine yet. 12 cheers.

By Robert Austin. Dr. T. H. Hall.

By B. R. Hines, Esq. (a member of the Guards.) Our Captain: the better we know him the more we love him.

By Charles G. Hunter. The fair sex of North Carolina: May their merit ever be duly appreciated.

[It will be perceived from the following proceedings, that Mr. Hines declines furnishing a copy of his Oration for publication.]
