The election takes place on Thursday, the 12th November next.

We have enclosed in this paper, accounts against several of our distant subscribers, and earnestly request their early attention to this matter. We do not trouble them often in this way, and as we are willing to receive current money where our subscribers reside in payment, and also assume the risk of all moneys transmitted to us by mail, we confidently rely upon their justice for a speedy settlement of our small claims.

We are requested to state, that the Republicans of Edgecombe and Nash, with those of the adjoining counties, will give a Public Dinner at Nolley's Cross Roads, in Edgecombe county, on Thursday the 15th of October next. Several prominent politicians in the Democratic ranks are expected to attend, and some sound Republican doctrines doubtless will be promulgated.

We are truly pleased to learn, that Henry I. Toole, Esq. of Washington, has become associate Editor of the Raleigh Standard, with T. Loring, Esq. Mr. Toole is an able and energetic writer; and altho' young in years, may be regarded as a practiced and skilful veteran in politics. We copy the following articles from that paper. TO THE PATRONS OF THE STANDARD.

As I am compelled to be absent for a short space, this Fall, I have associated with me, in the Editorial Department of the Standard, for the time being, HENRY I. TOOLE, Esq. a gentleman whose talents, it is believed, will prove a powerful auxiliary in the good cause of Republicanism. His ardent devotion to popular rights, and sterling Democratic principles, will, I trust, render this arrangement highly acceptable to the readers of the Standard. Sept. 30, 1840. T. LORING.

To the Public, and particularly to the Republicans of North Carolina.

The undersigned has become associated with Mr. Loring in the editorial chair of the North Carolina Standard. He is fully sensible that any gentleman who participates in the control of the leading political press of a party in the State, incurs heavy responsibilities; and he feels that they are most fearful now, when all the fountains of public opinion are stirred, and the allied powers of money and federalism, having staked all their hopes upon an issue, are making a desperate and daring assault to storm the government. At a crisis so fraught with peril to our institutions and therefore with anxiety to the patriot, to become one of the Standard-bearers of the Republican party of North Carolina is a post which he has hesitated to assume; but having assumed will faithfully and fearlessly maintain.

Republicans of North Carolina! You are in the midst of a momentous struggle. It is so felt on all hands. The contest of 1798, when federalism was driven to the wall, is a memorable epoch in our history, but that now pending whilst it involves the same principle, involves also the happiness of twice as many millions of people, and is rendered more doubtful by the accession of strength which the monarchical principle has derived from the advance of the country in wealth and luxury. This wealth, beneficial when employed in the honorable pursuits of healthful enterprise, has been permitted under the trustful dominion of democracy to band itself together into banking and other corporations endowed with anti-republican privileges; and in that form and to perpetuate those privileges, is now boldly in the field, the most dangerous antagonist of popular liberty. The foe has pitched his tent in almost every village in the country, abusing the public functions with which he has been incautiously clothed, whenever he can plausibly throw the odium of such abuse upon a republican administration, holding the purse-strings of every citizen and using his power as often as he may wish to control a vote, contemning the authority of the law, and disregarding his own obligations, private and public, whilst compelling others to fulfil theirs to the letter. Never before, in any country has the money power assumed so audacious an attitude. It is openly in the field contending for political mastery. Nor is that the worst feature of the contest: it is the foreign capitalist and aristocrat who fights under the banner of the American Banking system. Our whole system, as at present constituted, is but a dependency of that of Britain: and in this particular the present contest may be likened to that of '76. Then the question was whether we should be governed by the King of England—now, whether we shall be governed by the Bank of England. This is the true issue, the great question to be decided in November; all other issues are immaterial. The Hooe case, Militia plan, miscalled a Standing Army, the clamor about Expenditures and the Census, are all mere scarecrows gotten up to divert the attention of the people from the true question. Upon this issue there can be no room for an honest difference of opinion among true republicans. Among such there must be but one mind and one heart. Come, then, Republicans of North Carolina, to the rescue of the noble old State!—She has stood from '76 till now by the country and the Constitution, yielding a uniform support to every republican administration; shall she now forsake her old faith? Shall the land of Macon be allowed to sink into the mercenary and polluted embraces of federalism, or of its bastard offspring? No: it cannot, it must not be. Let us resolve that she may be, shall be redeemed from the opprobrium which her late elections have cast upon her venerable escutcheon. The occasion brooks no delay, and the temper of the times brooks no lukewarm action. Rush then into the contest, at once, and warmly. Rouse those who slumber, enlighten those who are deceived, strengthen the weakhearted, meet and refute those who are busy in the work of delusion. Action is the word; immediate, efficient, unremitting action. The undersigned has a duty to perform, and it shall be done to the best of his ability: will you aid him with a corresponding effort? Whilst he assists in upholding your Standard, it shall be flung and float freely and stiffly even in the midst and hottest of the conflict: will you rally under it, and help to save our noble and glorious old North State, from the stain of federalism, the ignoble dominion of the money-changers?

Young Democrats of North Carolina! One of your number addresses you. A native of North Carolina, reared in her institutions, and proud of her former republican triumphs, he feels with you mortified at the "shadow of turning," seen in her late election, and will labor with you earnestly to restore her to her ancient and true position. Yours is the age for action, when the bosom is filled with emotions, and should pant for usefulness. The State looks with eager hope for your best efforts. Your fathers who stood by Jefferson in the great civil revolution of '98, acquired a glory only inferior to the soldiers of '76, and are now regarded as standards of the faith. Rely upon it FORTY YEARS HENCE the contest of 1840 will stand in history and public sentiment, as that of '98 stands now. If you would lay up recollections which will cheer you in after years, now is the time to act. There is much to be done. The federalists are scattering their humbugs and misrepresentations broad east through the State, piling falsehood upon falsehood, until, it would seem they were reaching the presumptuous folly of the fabled giants of old, who piling Pelion upon Ossa sought to scale the heavens—not the heaven of federalism where loaves and fishes abound, but the home of the Omnipotent: If the opposition are so active in so bad a cause, shall we not deserve reproach if with one so good as ours, we do not meet and counteract their efforts with a spirit equal to their own?—The undersigned relies confidently on your aid in dissipating error and circulating truth. He wishes each of you to consider him your personal friend, ready to co operate in every honorable effort to redeem the State. He begs each of you to correspond freely with him, stating particularly what misrepresentations are afloat in each particular section, in order that they may be corrected.—Write freely, and with a full assurance that your communications will always receive a cordial welcome and respectful attention. He presumes to ask your aid in extending the circulation of "The Standard," in doing which you confer a personal favor, whilst you benefit the cause of sound principles.

HENRY I. TOOLE.

ACTION! ACTION!! ACTION!!!

We learn that our friends in different sections of the State, are rapidly organizing for the 12th of November. Time presses but it is not too late. If they will but rouse up, and go to work with a hearty good will, we shall then teach the Whigs a lesson to be remembered during their lives. Action is all we want. We have verbal accounts from several counties of the most encouraging character. Nash county: The democracy there, are said to be in the highest enthusiasm, and Harrison will doubtless fall short of Morehead's vote. That active and intrepid champion of Democracy Gen. Saunders addressed the people at Nashville during their Superior Court week with extraordinary power, and was succeeded by Mr. Craig, of our Electoral Ticket—who gained new laurels in a new field. Warren county: The democratic association holds its weekly meetings, and able and spirited addresses are delivered. The County of Macon will blow Whiggery sky-high in November. Johnson county: The eloquent Representative from that Congressional District, the Hon. Charles Shepard addressed the people at Smithfield last week with his accustomed ability. Our accounts are highly complimentary to Mr. Shepard; and although the "Register" gives a different account of the matter, we have no doubt he has been deceived by partial representations. Mr. Shepard will again address the people this week at Waynesboro'. We commend the activity of Mr. Shepard to the imitation of our republican leaders throughout the State. Franklin county: Our friends there too are on the alert. The humbugging and slang-wrangling there, has disgusted many of the people and excited the Democrats. Edgecombe county: There also our friends are roused. The Whigs missed their mark at their road frolic. They have roused the lion; and in November he will roar. Wake county: All right: skies bright. We are grossly deceived if the Democracy of Wake does not give a better account of themselves in November than they did even in August. Gates county: We have charming intelligence from this County. The Democrats are up and organizing with spirit. We would like to publish our accounts more particularly, but our limits forbid.

We have no accounts from the West. We hope our friends in every county in the State will write to us what they are doing towards the redemption of the State. We say to them most earnestly—Organize—Organize—Organize. Establish a Democratic Association in each of your counties—meet every Saturday, at your respective Court Houses—call out your public speakers to enlighten the people. Save the State!—Raleigh Stand.

Exploring Expedition—Great Discovery.—Letters have been received from the United States Exploring Expedition, dated at Sydney, New South Wales, March 12, 1840, announcing the discovery of a vast continent in the antarctic regions. It would seem that the discovery of the continent was made on the 19th of January, 1840, by both the French and American squadrons.

The part of the ocean included between the degrees of 97 and 154 degrees east, and south of 65, was not traversed by Cook, nor any of the great navigators that we remember; though west of 60 degrees east longitude, he went to nearly 70 degrees of south latitude. But the discoveries now mentioned seem to be all east of this. Captain Biscoe, at about 45 degrees east longitude, took a north-eastern course from nearly 70 degrees south latitude.

In 1823, Capt. Waddel was considerably south of 70 degrees, as indeed Capt. Cook was in 1774, but no report is made of any thing but islands of ice. We do not now recollect the cause, if there was any, why the southern navigators all avoided (as they seem to have done) the part of the great Southern Ocean lying in the latitude and longitude recently visited by the American and French squadrons. U. S. Gaz.

A young slave, aged, 15 belonged to Mr. Charles Mills, proprietor of a coffee house at N. Orleans, set fire to his master's premises on the night of the 18th ult., but the mischief accomplished was no great. He confessed his guilt, but stated that he was hired to do it for fifty cents and a promise of more, by a man whom he met in the market.

Foreign.

Seven Days Later From England.—The steam ship Caledonia, Capt. Cleland, reached Boston early on Saturday morning, having made the voyage from Liverpool in 13 1/2 days. She brings Liverpool papers to the 19th, London to the 18th, and Paris papers to the 16th ult.

The tone of the French papers is still very warlike—the government had resolved on fortifying Paris, and other large cities of France. The question of war or no war, is no nearer a solution than on the arrival of the Great Western. On the one hand, we learn that the proceedings in Turkey and Egypt appear to indicate an approach to a crisis—that there is no alternative but war; and on the other hand that the formidable preparations of France and England, and all the lofty menaces of ministers and diplomatists, will end in something like the vapor that issues from a kitchen boiler. By the London Morning Herald, dated on the morning of the 18th ult. at 3 o'clock, we learn that there was a "probability of the settlement of the Eastern question, and the continuance of peace in Europe."

The Court of Peers has issued a decree, putting Prince Louis Napoleon and 19 of his companions (two by default) on their trial on the 28th inst. for their recent attempt to excite an insurrection at Boulogne. The Court ordered the release of the remaining 33 prisoners.

The insurrection in Spain was rapidly extending. Soria, Grenada, Carthagena, Malaga, &c. had sent in their adhesion to the Junta of Madrid. Marotto and several Carlist officers, had tendered their services to the new government, and Seville was in a state of siege.

The repeal of the Union, between England and Ireland, continued to be violently agitated. A proposition was made at a meeting of the National Repeal Association, in Dublin, for the members to clothe themselves in national manufactures, and to renounce the use of every article that came from England, which was received with loud cheers.

The Cotton markets continued firm, without any material variation in prices.

Petersburg Market, Sept. 30.—Cotton We have no change to notice in this article since our last publication. We quote as in quality 8 to 9 1/2 cts.

Norfolk Market, Oct. 6.—Cotton, 8 1/2 a 9 cents; Corn, 50 to 51 cents; Bacon, (hog round) 10 to 12 1/2; Lard, 12 to 14 cents.—Herald.

Washington Market, Oct. 7.—Corn Wholesale, $2 a $2 10. Bacon—sides 9 a 10 cents, hams 10 cents. Naval Stores—New dip, $1 60; Old, $1 50. Scrap—70 cents. Tar, $1 00 Fish—shad, 8 a $9. Herrings, cut, $4 00; whole, $2 50 a $3 00.—Rep.

MARRIED.

In this county, on Tuesday evening the 29th ult. by Rev. Wm. Bellamy, Rev. John F. Speight to Miss Emma Lewis, daughter of Exum Lewis, dec'd.

DIED.

In Greensboro', Alabama, on Thursday, 24th ult., Mrs. Mary Foreman Lewis, wife of Richard Henry Lewis, Esq. formerly of this county, in the 30th year of her age, leaving a husband and four small children to mourn her untimely end.

A correspondent of the Greensboro' Beacon, under the signature of H. says: Seldom has it been the lot of bereaved friendship to pay the last tribute of affection to so worthy an object, as the subject of this notice. Possessing a high degree of mental excellence, with all the loveliest qualities of the heart, she united in an uncommon degree the characters of a wife; the friend and companion of her husband—a mother the guide and pattern of her children—and a friend the ornament of the social circle. In prosperity shedding upon all the cheerful light of her own cultivated virtues—and in the hour of adversity and sorrow, soothing the wounded heart by the tenderness of her sympathy—and alleviating the distress of suffering friendship with all the kindness of a sister's love. Thus lovely in life she displayed to the last, through all the painful trials of a lingering sickness, a patience to be expected only from one of her uncommon virtues and a confident assurance of a happy immortality "where sighing and sorrow flee away."
