Carboro' Southener... Thursday, March 1, 1883... HOUSEHOLD DEER... I dropped the pen and ink. And caught the faintest sound; She must be playing life-and-death in shady nooks around.

Drawing for a Prize... "But you must admit she is very pretty, Miss Mercy," said her visitor, smiling quizzically, as she once more endeavored to draw out her hostess upon the party under discussion.

No, I am sorry to say I cannot see it. "Handsome is that handsome does," and for my part I fail to understand why a young woman, if she is as lovely as Miss Mercy's, should be in the country getting up concerts and theatrical performances, fleeing people out of their money and making herself generally ridiculous, if she has a mother and a home to stay in.

IT IS PURELY VEGETABLE... Ad has all the power and efficacy of Cod-liver-Oil, without any of its objectionable qualities. A Governor's Testimony. Simmons' Liver Regulator has been in use in my family for some time, and I am satisfied it is a valuable addition to the medicinal cabinet.

THAT BAD BOY... "What on earth is that you have got on your upper lip?" said the grocery man to the bad boy as he came in and began to peel a rutabaga, and his upper lip hung down over his teeth, and was covered with something that looked like shoe-maker's wax.

"You look as though you had been digging potatoes with your nose." "O, that's some of pa's darn smartness. I asked him if he knew anything that would make a boy's mouth stop growing, and he told me the best thing he ever tried was tar, and for me to rub it on thick when I went to bed, and wash it off in the morning. I put it on last night, and by gosh, I can't wash it off. Pa told me all I had to do was to use a scouring brick and it would come off, and I used the brick, and it took all the tar off, and there it is there yet, and say, does this lip look very bad?"

"The groceryman told him it was the worst looking lip he ever gazed upon, but he could cure it by rubbing a little cayenne pepper in the tar. He said the tar would neutralize the pepper, and the pepper would loosen the tar, and act as a cooling lotion to the inflamed lip. The groceryman took the broom and started to help me, and I tried to stop my nose, but my constitution is not very strong and I didn't want her to do any thing, but she went on with her broom and a towel over her head.

"Well, I don't know where my dad lives, but when she came in she said she had put cayenne on the lip, but that wasn't what she put on, and she said she had rubbed it on like a bullet through cheese, and when she went down the steps bump—bump—bump—I felt sorry for me. The minister had gotten so he could set up on the side-walk, with his back against the lower step, when he came sliding down, and one of the heels of her gaiters hit the minister in the back, and the other foot went right through between his arm and his side, and the broom like to pushed his teeth down his throat. But he was not mad at me. As soon as he saw it was me, he said, "Why, sister, the wicked stand in slippery places, don't they," and he said she was mad, and for him to let her stocking, and then she came on, and he said, "Look here, you wretched girl, this thing has gone far enough, and then a policeman came along and he thought they were all drunk, but he found they were respectable, and he got a chip and scraped the soap off them, and they went home, and pa and ma they got into the house, some way. Just then the letter carrier came along but he didn't have any letters for us, and he drove the cart into the street, and then I went upstairs, and I said, "Pa, don't you think it is real mean after you and I fixed the soap on the steps for the letter carrier, he didn't come on the steps at all," and pa was scraping the soap off his pants with a piece of shingle, and the hired girl was putting liniment on ma, and heating it in for palpitation of the heart, and pa said, "You ain't got no more of this, or I'll man the liver out of you," and I asked pa if he didn't think soft soap would help a mountaineer to grow, and he picked up ma's work-basket and threw it at my head, and I went down stairs, and I came over here. Don't you think my pa is unreasonable over a little joke that he played himself?"

"The groceryman said he didn't know, and the bad boy went out with a pair of skates over his shoulder, and the groceryman is wondering what joke the boy will play on him."

Fixed in his Mind... Riding up the Columbia pike from Franklin to reach the ground, I came across an African riding by the roadside, and after several general inquiries, I asked, "Anybody around here got any relics of the battle?"

"Does you mean cannon balls, shot, bullets, and so forth?" "Well, sah, I has de identical cannon ball dat killed General Jackson in de year '45."

"No!" "You don't mean to say that General Jackson was killed here?" "Dat's zactly what I mean, sah! Ze got de werry cannon-ball dat mashed him. How much will you pay for a relic?"

"I got down and argued with him. I read the list of generals who fell at Franklin, and then told him how and where Jackson died, but he was firm as a rock.

"It's no use, boss,—no use, boss! As he rose up he said, "You hain't be right, but somehow Ze got it fixed in my mind for ten years past dat my cannon ball killed General Jackson, an' I should start up now wid some older story I couldn't disrecollect if fifteen minutes. Yes, I'll stick to Jackson, an' de price of dat ball an' two dollars!"—From Press.
