A Tip to Tourists

Tourists and all who travel in North Carolina are advised by the State Board of Health to look out for the "Grade A" sign when patronizing hotels, restaurants, cafes, lunch rooms and public eating places. A "Grade A" placard issued by the State Board of Health means that that place when last inspected by a sanitarian was given a rating of 90% or over. It means also that "Grade A" milk is used, that the water supply is safe, that sewerage facilities are adequate, that cleanliness is observed in the handling and preparation of food, and that the servants hold health certificates.—The Health Bulletin.
