Southern Hospitality

Mrs. D. B. Fletcher, Senior Hostess, Camp Croft, says, quote from a letter dated June 30: "The men of Camp Croft always have a happy time in Tryon that they love to go there. I think your idea of having some ladies act as hostesses for supper and the night and breakfast and other hostesses have the boys for Sunday dinner and supper the next day is very good. It would not be a hardship on the hostesses and the boys would meet more of the delightful Tryon people in this way."

Nice boys, like your son and mine or our grandsons can be contacted through Capt. Knott at the camp and no special plans for entertaining them need be made as just loafing around the yard and house, reading or going for a walk or swim, or visiting with the family and playing with the family dog, is the home touch the men and boys so much miss. Don't however, serve beans to the men in the army, nor yet fried chicken, or chicken stew and dumplings, spoon bread or baking powder biscuits and for dessert nothing beats an apple or a peach pie hot from the oven.

Plan a lawn party and lemonade for Sunday afternoon and announce it in the Friday Bulletin so the hostesses who have guests from the camp can take their guests to it. Or have a picnic supper or a barbecue for the men. Atlanta society women, (see Life magazine of a bit ago) are having progressive parties for themselves, a course at every home—so let's do this—for the men at Camp Croft—and inexpensively. So if

A very special musical treat is in store for the Methodist congregation this coming Sunday morning when Mrs. M. C. Stafford, a graduate of Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore, will substitute for Mrs. Walter Jones, who is on vacation. Besides the choir music there will be a trio that alone should be worth the effort required to attend. The special feature of the morning will be Mrs. Stafford on the organ. Mrs. R. W. Blanchard on the piano and Richard Blanchard playing the trombone. The evening service will feature a special musical attraction Sunday morning subject, "Peter Before Two Fires." This week the pastor starts a special series from New
