More On The Jefferson Awards

When we heard that Mrs. Lynne Wood Director of the Polk County Sheltered Workshop had won a Jefferson Award for the Carolinas, we weren't familiar with the award. The Jefferson Awards and the American Institute for Public Service were founded in 1973, to honor the highest ideals and achievements in the field of public service in the United States. Through its annual Jefferson Awards, the Institute recognizes the dedication, sacrifice and accomplishments of individuals serving the American people and strives to develop new leadership. There are five Award Categories: 1. The Greatest Public Service Performed by an Elected or Appointed Official; 2. The Greatest Public Service Performed by a Private Citizen; 3. The Greatest Public Service Benefiting the Disadvantaged; 4. The Great Public Service Performed by Benefiting Local Communities. Mrs. Wood was named for The Greatest Public Serving Benefiting the Disadvantaged.

The Jefferson Award is a 2½ inch proof medallion, gold on silver, featuring a replica of the Seal of the United States on the front: "In Recognition of Outstanding Public Service" on the reverse. The Jefferson Awards are donated as a public service by the Franklin Mint.

At the national level five thousand dollars is granted for each award category.
