Weather Thursday: high 95, low 70. Friday morning was cooler as a front went through the area. Some spots in Polk County got rain, but not nearly enough.

Refusing to reverse a longstanding military tradition, the U. S. Supreme Court affirmed Thursday that women are exempt from registration and the draft. And it implicitly approved, as well, the exclusion of female enlistees from combat. By a 6-3 vote, the justices ruled that Military Selective Service Act is constitutional. A lower federal court had ruled that the 1949 law fosters unconstitutional sex discrimination against men.

Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green has acknowledged to state officials that he accepted a cash gift of about $4,775 from a paving contractor in 1977, but the Wake County district attorney said Green did not appear to have broken any laws and he will not be charged with any criminal offenses.

A coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats in the House, spurred by President Reagan's personal lobbying, Thursday overturned the Democratic leadership and laid the groundwork for adoption of

Auditions Tuesday For TLTS Belle of Amherst

Auditions will be held tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the Tryon Fine Arts Center for William Luce's "The Belle of Amherst," the Tryon Little Theater's October season opener under the direction of Dean Campbell.

A one-person play, "Belle" is based on the life of poet Emily Dickinson, who is 53 years old at the time of the play. But as playwright Luce notes, Emily's age is not too relevant since she appears younger than she is.

Tryon has a special tie with "The Belle of Amherst." One of the Dickinson sources cited by Mr. Luce with gratitude in the printed play is "The Lyman Letters" by Richard B. Sewall. Mr. Sewall has visited Tryon often, and his brother Greenville resides here.

Any actress wishing to read for the role of Emily who cannot attend tomorrow's audition is asked to call the Fine Arts Center office to arrange an alternate audition date: 859-5248.

"The Belle of Amherst" will play October 1, 2, and 3.
