Nominated For Trustees Scholar

COLUMBIA, S. C. — A female student from Spartanburg Day School, Susanne Engels of Tryon has been nominated as a Columbia College Trustees Scholar because of outstanding academic achievement.

Ms. Engels has received a Trustees Scholar Certificate of Merit which recognizes, according to Columbia College President Ralph T. Mirse, "outstanding individual ability and effort." The Certificate of Merit is one of the highest honors that Columbia College bestows on high school juniors.

As a Columbia College Trustees Scholar, she is now eligible to compete for the Trustees Scholarship Award, a $500 per year scholarship based on academic achievement.

Columbia College, a four year liberal arts college, is South Carolina's only private church-affiliated college for women. It was founded by the United Methodist Church in 1854.

Homecoming Sunday At Mill Creek Church
