

WINSTON-SALEM CHRONICLE

Vol. 1 No. 41

WINSTON-SALEM, NORTH CAROLINA

20 cents

Saturday June 14, 1975

"Man, I've never seen so much food in my life!" These two youngsters were but two of a crowd of over 50,000 employees and their families attending the 100th anniversary picnic of R.J. Reynolds Industries, Inc., last Saturday. The menu consisted of over 55 tons of food and 10,000 gallons of soft drinks, and research indicates that it was the largest picnic in history at which a full-course meal was served.

Civic Club

Demands Action: May Get Injunction

Patrick Hairston, NAACP Labor Industrial Committee Chairman, warns that unless the budget committee answers to charges brought before it recently by the Morningside Manor Civic Club, they will bring an injunction next week to force the city to close its eleven swimming pools.

Hairston said in an interview earlier this week that a presentation was made before the budget hearing committee of the Board of Alderman outlining the grievances and dissatisfactions with the operation of the swimming pools in black communities.

The Morningside Manor Civic Club is enraged over what they claim are "deplorable conditions of swimming pools in black communities." According to Hairston the present situation has been caused by segregated staffs and programs and fees that exist.

C.C. Ross, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Alderman said "some very serious charges had been made." He said the allegation had been referred to the City Manager and the city's Recreation Director. Ross said that these people were in the process of preparing a report to hand back to the finance committee.

City Manager Orville Powell said the report would be ready in a few days. He stated that the report would contain information on the qualifications of lifeguards and comments on the reason for separate price rates at different pools. These were two of the main allegations made by the Morningside group.

Powell, however, would not comment on any of the findings of the report.

Dead Body Found In Trade St. Creek

The body of Hazel Willie Leach is the third body of a black man to be found mysteriously. Leach's body according to police reports was found June 7, lying on his stomach with his face partially in the water in the creek of the 1600 block of Trade Street.

Reports stated a brick with blood was found under the right side of the body.

Police said Leach was last seen in Hairston's grocery store accompanied by another male. Alice Flynt who works in the store stated that the two came into the store together and bought a package of lunch meat.

According to Flynt the two ate some of the meat in the store. She also reported that Leach had asked her to call him a Green Cab but the cab
