It's Swinging Tournament Time for Pro-Am Golfers

by Gwen Dixon
Staff Reporter

Golf players are getting in the mood to swing to the action of the 11th annual Pro-Am Golf Tournament this weekend at Winston Lake golf course.

E. Jerry Jones, founder of the Pro-Am Tournament, said this year is special because Friday night there will be a Cocktail party which is designed to raise money to promote the interest of black youngsters in the game of golf. On Saturday night, there will be a dance. This year is the first time for the party and dance.

Jones, who has been playing golf for more than 15 years, says he is still an apprentice golfer. "I have never played in a FGA tournament because I'm still an apprentice.

"There are four or five black PGA golfers in the country but none in N.C.," Jones said. "I'm the only apprentice in N.C."

Jones has been manager of the Winston Lake golf course for about 12 years. He says it takes a long time before you become a professional PGA golfer. He has studied in a PGA school in San Francisco and completed summer training in Florida. His small office is lined with certificates from golf courses completed.

The native born Texan, teaches golf to youngsters, senior citizens and others. He gives group and individual lessons which cost as much as $8 for half an-hour.

In a rushed interview, the golfer said he got started in golf in college. Such professions as Lee Elder, George Johnson and Nathaniel Stark all came through his shop. Jones' face shows nothing less than exuberant pride to be able to say he was instrumental in the development of professional-golfers.

This year the golfer wants to get more youngsters involved in golf. The opportunity for a youngster getting a scholarship is available if he learns to shot an 80. The interest among blacks for the sport is growing. Traditional golf was a white rich man's sport.
