

Children Learning

We teach and children learn. That is our responsibility and obligation. Let us not fail in this most important role.

by Shedrick Adams
Staff Writer

The arts is a means of discovering learning abilities and disabilities in children. The Early Childhood Development Planning Association is providing Child Care Centers in Forsyth County with staff, technical support and techniques to offer a culturally enriched curriculum. The mediums of art, music and dance are used to stimulate creative learning experiences. Workshops and other training are offered so that these fine arts programs can continue.

Art-Means Of Discovery

Mrs. Cheryl Bradshaw, the Program Coordinator, says that other specific goals of the arts program are to provide an aesthetic experience, stimulate physical and mental development and to increase and motivate self-expression both verbal and non-verbal.

The Specialists are salaried by the association and their services are of no cost to the Day Care Centers. Gilbert Young is Art specialist.

He graduated from Atkins High School, studied at the Schools of the Arts, and spent one summer studying in Europe. Music and Piano is taught by Mrs. Lyndia Lowery Bagby a graduate of Atkins High School and WSSU.

Dance and creative movement is taught by Ms. Margaret Cropps, a graduate of Surry Central High School and WSSU.

PTA Confab Scheduled

District VI of the North Carolina PTA (which includes Winston-Salem and Forsyth County), and the March of Dimes will jointly sponsor a conference on parenting on Thursday November 20, from 9a.m. to 2:30p.m. at the Alfred Pick Motel near the Regional Airport in Greensboro. The $5 registration fee includes lunch.

The Keynote speaker will be Gene Causby of the State Department of Public Instruction. Panelists include Dr. Thomas Clark of the Bowman Gray Marital Health Clinic and Dr. Martha Sharpless, Chief of Pediatrics Teaching Services at Moses H. Cone Hospital.

Parenting is about as close as anything can come to being a universal experience. Everyone has or had parents. Most of us are capable of becoming parents and the vast majority of people do become fathers or mothers. Conception is basically the result of an instinctive, biological act and unfortunately many people attempt to raise their children the same way - instinctively.

It doesn't work; or at least the following statistics would seem to indicate that it is not working today;

Teenage girls in North Carolina give birth to 21,000 children a year; one birth every 24 minutes.

11% of children entering school are so badly damaged emotionally that they have little chance of success.
