Greensboro) Dr. Katherine Sebo (Guilford County State Representative), Mr. Robert Shaw, Ms. Mary Helen Smith, Mrs. Julie Stanback, and Mr. Mike Wrenn.

A reception was held immediately following the show.

Summer temperatures of last week cracked open a "huge egg of fashion" and out of it stepped lovely models wearing beautiful fashions that prompted a "Pre-Easter Potpourri" theme for a benefit fashion show featuring the Ben. E. Smith High String Orchestra, Jimmy and Marilyn Persons, various radio and TV personalities, and other professionals including figures in government, banking and education. The show was held in the auditorium of the Ben. E. Smith High School in Greensboro.

The Show's producer and co-ordinator was Mr. Jesse Suggs, director of the 45 member String Orchestra and band of the school. Mr. Suggs had conducted the orchestra since 1970. The purpose in producing the fashion show was to provide financial support to the Ruby Wolfe Scholarship Fund. Commented Mr. Suggs, "We wish to provide a scholarship for a deserving high school senior that wishes to pursue a career in music.

The commentator for the show was Ms. Lee Miller (Director of News - WEAL Radio). The show was divided into three scenes: "Fancy Free (I), "Nice and Easy" (II) and "Parade of Elegance" (III).

Models were: Ms. Michelle Burney, Sheila Hale, Jane Harrington (WXII-TV 12), Dr. J.W. House (Supt. Greensboro City Schools), Sandra Hughes (WFMY-TV 2), Ms. Kay McFadden, Susan Melvin (wife of Mayor Melvin of

Chambers and Mrs. Cheek. Chambers would not elaborate on the letter and would not offer any sort of statement until he received additional evidence.

He is due to be in Winston-Salem sometimes this week where he will talk with members of the local NAACP chapter.

At their January meeting, Dr. J.T. McMillan, president of the local chapter stated that it was very hard to understand how a person like Mrs. Cheek could be fired after the number of years she worked.

Mrs. Cheek was fired in January.
