STOMPIN '76

Complainants May Have Recourse

Anyone with claims against Stompin' 76 should write to the attorneys for Cactus Productions, which sponsored the event, the Better Business Bureau has reported her. Cactus Productions is reportedly out of business.

Stompin' 76 was the music festival held on the New River near Galax, Va., August 5-8. Some have estimated that 100,000 attended. The bureau has received several complaints from people who bought tickets through the mail several weeks before the event, but could not get in because of the crowds. Many were turned away at the gates, and many were prevented by the long lines from getting to the gates. They had paid $12 for their tickets.

R.E. Hitchcock, president of the bureau, said that the Better Business Bureau of Baltimore, Md. has advised that people with claims should write a brief letter to the office of Peter G. Angelos and Thomas Minkin, legal firm for the company, at Equitable Building, 8 N. Calvert Street, Baltimore, Md. 21201. The attorneys say the complainants will be advised as soon as the liabilities and assets of Cactus Productions are determined.

According to a report to the Baltimore bureau by a unidentified friend of Hal Abranson, president of Cactus Productions, the company is defunct. The friend reported that 29,000 advance tickets and about 2,000 tickets at the gate were sold. However, 150,000 people showed up for the concert. About 119,000 did not pay. According to the report, this created financial problems for Abranson, and forced Cactus Productions out of business.
