

AKA's Convene In Raleigh

Velma H. Friende
Special to the Chronicle

Members of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc., from North Carolina and Virginia, convened in Raleigh last weekend for the 25th Mid-Atlantic Regional Conference which was held at the Royal Villa. The theme of the conference was "A Salute to Women, Past, Present and Future." The sorority's seventieth anniversary, the Durham chapter's fiftieth anniversary and the region's twenty-fifth anniversary were celebrated at the conference.

Plenary sessions, an awards luncheon, a Mexican fiesta and workshops on graduate and undergraduate concerns were featured.

Keynote speaker at the formal banquet was Barbara K. Phillips, principal of Lowrance Intermediate School, who will assume the national presidency of the 75,000-member organization at the Boule in Houston, Texas, in July. Her forceful address, entitled "A Time for Being Human," projected emphasis on the PROCLAMATION of the sorority's seventieth anniversary, ACCLAMATION of its distinctive programs and DECLARATION of the sorority's future responsibilities.

Annette Morgan, the sorority's national public relations coordinator, was a speaker at the National Program Presentation which was held for the conferees on Friday.

Marion Brower, Elsie Foy, Alma Joyce, Bryte

Puryear and Mary Warren were among the honorees who were recognized for 25-year memberships at the "Silver Stars" luncheon. Phi Omega Chapter of Winston-Salem was represented by Olivia Morgan, basileus, Velma Friende, anti-basileus, Delores Phillips, grammateus, Sandra Deberry, hodegos, Marie Roseboro, advisor to Winston-Salem State University's undergraduates, Ann Jones, tunicheos, Virginia Buckner, who served as a consultant on reactivation, Susie Nance, Marian Brower, Gwendolyn Crawford, Emmalene Goodwin, Helen Hairston, Virginia Newell, Gloria Crawford, Dorothy Wynecoff, Sandra Taylor and Barbara Phillips.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, founded at Howard University in 1908, is the nation's oldest organization for black college women.

If you're thinking about giving someone in your family a puppy, remember that a tail-wagging bundle of love is really a present for the whole family.

That's why an especially good time to give a new puppy is when children have time to help train it and give it extra attention and love. Some families make puppy training a goal to complete by the end of the summer. With the season's warm weather, this goal is usually easy to meet—and especially enjoyable!

According to the Pet Food Institute the training, love and care a puppy receives the first few weeks in a new home strongly influences his personality. A puppy needs special attention and love during this period so he'll grow into a happy, well-mannered family pet.

Teach your children how to lift a new puppy so it feels secure. (One hand under the pup's hind quarters and the other supporting the chest.) Caution family members to play gently with the new puppy and not shout if it does something wrong. Stress that a sharp "no" or "ba-a-d dog" is the best way to scold a puppy. Encourage praising the pup when he obeys and is good.

Puppy ownership and training is easier for everyone with a "how-to" booklet on puppy care. Chew toys, food and water bowls and a dog bed are training accessories to consider purchasing because they'll help get the new family member off to the right start.

Puppies should be fed only commercially prepared dog foods on a regular schedule. If fed table scraps or in-between feeding periods, a dog may become finicky or sick. Read pet food labels carefully and select a food for your puppy that supplies complete nutrition. Some are specially formulated to meet a growing pup's nutritional needs.

With good feeding, training and regular check-ups at the veterinarian a new puppy will bring years of enjoyment and fun to your family. Encourage your children to be responsible pet owners. Take them along when you make that first trip to the vet. Explain why all puppies must be vaccinated and licensed. Stress the importance of always exercising the puppy on a leash or in a fenced-in backyard. (You might mention the dog's safety and the beautiful flower garden across the street as reasons!)

A new pup can be a very special Easter, graduation, birthday or anniversary present—it is the one gift that stays to help celebrate all the family's special days for years to come.
