Palmer Gaines K. Lowery

Porter Thompson

DR. LARRY L. PALMER, the first director of minority affairs at Wake Forest University will head a program designed to recruit minority students and faculty members and to voice minority concerns.

Palmer, a native of Augusta, Ga., holds the bachelor's degree in psychology from Emory University, the master's in African studies and political science from Texas Southern University and the doctorate in higher education administration from the University of Indiana at Bloomington. He has held administrative positions at several universities including that of assistant director of admissions at Cuttington University College in Liberia, West Africa, where he also taught political science.

In addition to his duties as minority affairs director, Palmer also will teach history at Wake Forest.

LOWERY* PORTER* THOMPSON AND LOWERY recently received certificates at closing exercises held at McLean's Stenographic and Tutoring Service. Karen V. and Delphia D. Lowery completed the general Secretarial-Receptionists' course, Jeannette F. Porter, completed the letter writing course emphasizing special techniques and Arlethia Thompson complete the Accounting Essentials for Career Secretaries.

Karen and Delphia Lowery, daughters of Mr. & Mrs. James Lowery, received besides the general certificate, a certificate of Proficiency College Typewriting. They are 1975 graduates of East Forsyth Senior High School.

Delphia Lowery also received the outstanding business award which was cash from Beta Alpha Chapter, Iota Phi Lambda Sorority. She worked successfully January, 1978 through June, 1978 part time as intermediate typist for the city of Winston-Salem's Water Department, through the years. Beta Alpha Chapter Sorority has given the award, and has taken much interest in students successfully completing our curriculum courses.

Porter, is the first person enrolling upon request and receiving an honor certificate for a special course.

Floyd Griffin, coordinator of ROTC programs at both Winston-Salem State University and Wake Forest University, has been promoted from a captain to a major in dual ceremonies held at both universities.

Griffin's wife, Natalie, helped pin the symbolic stripes on him during the ceremonies. Maj. Griffin, who has been in Winston-Salem for four years, will serve as coordinator of both programs until the summer of 1979, when he is eligible for reassignment.
