L'eggs 10,000 Draws Strong Field

Advance registration is strong for the second L'eggs/YWCA 10,000 meter run for women here, said Barbara Long, race publicity director at the YWCA. "We're expecting close to 500 women to enter," Long said. "Most of those entered so far are from the Winston-Salem area, but we have some runners from Georgia and South Carolina." The 6.2 mile race starts at 9:00 a.m. on May 10 in Hanes Park here.

The race is part of a nationwide series of women's road races sponsored by L'eggs Products, the country's leading manufacturer of women's hosiery. All proceeds from entry fees are donated to the YWCA.

Last year, 22-year-old Kitty Consolo, a student at Wake Forest University, won the race with a time of 36 minutes, 30 seconds. Her victory qualified her to compete in the L'eggs Mini Marathon where she placed 53rd out of 4,500 runners, including national and international athletes of world caliber. Consolo is now a student at Ohio's Kent State University, and is not expected to defend her title in this year's Winston-Salem race. The race is open to all women, from beginners to experienced runners. All finishers receive commemorative T-shirts and a free pair of L'eggs pantyhose. Prizes will be awarded to the top finishers in five age categories. The winner of the race will receive an expense paid trip to New York for the L'eggs Mini Marathon on May 31. Entry forms for the race are available at the Winston-Salem YWCA. Entry fee is $3; $5 after May 7. For information call (919) 722-5138.

The National Football League held its annual player draft recently, and 24 black college players were among the 333 players selected. Heading the list of black college selectees was Alcorn State defensive back Roynell Young, who was picked by Philadelphia on the first round. Young was the 23rd player taken in the draft. Of all the black college players drafted, pro scouts say Young has the best chance of starting his first season in the NFL. Eagles' Coach Dick Vermeil was very high on Young. "We rated him as one of the top defensive backs in the country," Vermeil said. "We were very happy to get him. The job is sitting their waiting for him. The position we have got in mind for Young is now held by Bobby Howard who is 35-years-old. Howard is just banged up. He limped all year last season. We need a young guy in their with some speed." Young was the only black college player taken in the first round of the draft. The only other Alcorn player to be picked was running back Otis Wonsley, who went to the New York Giants on the ninth round.

South Carolina State, Southern and Florida A&M had more of their players picked than any other black college. Each of the schools had three players taken in the draft. South Carolina State defensive tackle Phillip Murphy went to Los Angeles in the third round, while the Bulldogs' Ervin Parker (linebacker) went to Buffalo on the fourth round and Nate Rivers (wide receiver) went to Philadelphia on the fifth.
