

It's Not Over Yet...

Winston-Salem State's Eugene Pennick and his teammates aren't through with the '83-84 basketball season yet. After receiving an NCAA bid they didn't expect, the Rams travel Friday night to Norfolk for a rematch with the top-ranked Spartans (photo by James Parker).

goes," he said, smiling. But Gaines just as quickly noted that his team could have beaten the Spartans in both games. And he only smiled again when asked about his near-confrontation with Christian and the lack of the customary handshake between the two coaches following the tournament game.

Gaines would not speculate on his squad's chances in the 32-team tournament field, but remarked, "This team, as I've said before, doesn't have a great deal of talent but they have improved constantly during the season and seven of our eight losses came against teams that are going into post-season play."

CIAA Commissioner Bob Moorman said the Rams' record and their schedule played a role in their receiving an at-large tourney berth. In addition to the two CIAA Division winners, the league received two at-large berths because it has more than six teams in each division.

"The at-large teams are selected by the strength of their schedule and record," said Moorman, who serves

"I had been down East on a recruiting trip and the league office was trying to contact me. I didn't think we had much of a shot at the playoffs and had forgotten about it."

Division I playoffs." Virginia Union will also be in the South Atlantic Regionals. The Panthers will play Randolph-Macon at 7 p.m. on March 10.

St. Augustine's, the fourth CIAA team to enter on the NCAA selection committee. "We ranked the teams from one through five and Winston-Salem was fifth. Of their eight losses, two were to Norfolk, ranked No.1 in the country, two were to Virginia Union, ranked about No.7, two to St. Augustine's, ranked No.17, and two to North Carolina A&T, a team that is in the the field, will travel to Erie, Pa., to take on Mansfield State at 7 p.m., also on the 10th. The host school, Gannon University, and C.W. Post will play at 9 p.m.

The winners of the regionals will advance to next weekend's second round with the finals to be held March 16-17 in Springfield, Mass.

Entering his third season as the Atlanta Braves' manager, Joe Torre denies that he's under pressure to win after capturing the National League West title in his first year and finishing a close second a year ago.

"No, I was under more pressure in New York," he said at the Braves' training camp in West Palm Beach, Fla. As manager of the New York Mets from 1977 to 1981, Torre posted a record of 286-420 and never produced a contender.

"Anytime your team is in last place the last two months of the season, that's pressure," he said. "You're fighting for your life all the time..."

After two seasons of losing basketball and a controversy over a player's acknowledging that he was functionally illiterate, former New York Knicks star Willis Reed says he is starting to put the pieces back together in his third year at Creighton University. After suffering through seasons of 7-20 in 1981-82 and 8-9 the following year, Reed's team is now 13-11, and he says he's disappointed at the slow rate of progress.

"I thought we would be further along than we are," he said. School officials are convinced that the Kevin Ross incident hampered Creighton's progress. Ross entered the national spotlight in 1981-82 when Athletic Director Dan Offenburger sent him to Westside Prep School in Chicago for remedial instruction.

Offenburger still defends the decision to send Ross back to the remedial school, but he conceded that the "negative national publicity did not reflect the situation."

"Locally, we had some trauma for our fans and people within the Creighton community," he said. "I think we just have to put that behind us now..."

Satchel Paige, who pitched for touring Negro teams and teams in Negro minor leagues for almost 30 years, once struck out Roger Hornsby, one of baseball's greatest hitters, five times in an exhibition game.
