The Winston-Salem Barristers' Wives host benefit

The Winston-Salem Barristers' Wives conducted a public forum recently at St. Paul United Methodist Church on "What Our Community Needs to Know About Health Care, Education and Family Law."

The benefit was held to aid the organization's scholarship fund.

Participants in the panel discussion were Paul Wiles, vice president of Forsyth Memorial Hospital; Palmer Friende, associate superintendent of the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County School System; and Rep. Annie Brown Kennedy of the law firm, Kennedy, Kennedy, Kennedy and Kennedy.

Mrs. Toy Beaty presided and the Rev. Belvin Jessup delivered the invocation and benediction. Mrs. Wilma Lassiter, vice president of the National Barristers' Wives, gave a brief history of the organization and its local chapter here.

Armenta Hummings provided music, with two piano selections from Bach's "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring" and Chopin's "Etude in G Flat Major."

Mrs. Kay Clark, vice president of the local chapter, presented Brian Kevin Washington, the first recipient of Jasper Alston Atkins Legal Education Scholarship, named for the well-known pioneer, the late J.A. "Jack" Atkins. Washington, who received the ward in 1983, is a second-year law student at the Wake Forest University School of Law.

Other members of the local Barristers' Wives are Geraldine Davis, secretary; Barbara Phillips, treasurer; Vivien Bright, Barbara Archia, Sandra Brown, Gail Favors, Donza Friende, Cheryl Gould-Bailey, Beverly Spainhour and Robin Summers.

West to speak at United Methodist Church

The United Methodist Women of Saints Home United Methodist Church will observe Women's Day, Sunday, May 20, at the 11:30 a.m. worship service.

The guest speaker will be Miss Maxine West of Asheville. West is conference vice-president of the United Methodist Women Western North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church and was a delegate to the general conference of the United Methodist Church in Baltimore earlier this month. She holds a bachelor's degree in mathematics and chemistry from Bennett College. The guest speaker is employed as a senior research chemist at the American Enka Company in Enka. A member of Berry Temple United Methodist Church in Asheville, West serves in the church choir and as chairperson of Religion and Race.

Mrs. Louise White, president of the United Methodist Women at Saints Home, will preside over the service. The vice-president, Mrs. Eva Peoples, will introduce the guest speaker.

The Rev. James T. Jones is pastor of Saints Home.

Brian K. Washington, the first recipient of the Jasper Alston Atkins Legal Education Scholarship, spoke at the recent program sponsored by the Winston-Salem Barristers' Wives

Eula Smith honored

Mrs. Roberta Cook and Miss Louise Smith were co-hostesses at a dinner party May 10 honoring Mrs. Eula Smith on her birthday. Mrs. Smith, the wife of Dr. C.N. Smith, was partially surprised as guests greeted her upon her arrival at Mrs. Cook's home on West 26th Street.

A native of Louisiana, Mrs. Smith and her guests enjoyed a dinner of Louisiana foods.

Other persons attending the dinner party included: Dr. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. William McKoy, Mr. and Mrs. Melton Sadler Jr., Mrs. Martha S. Atkins, Mrs. Evelyn Phillips, Mrs. Florence Rennick, Mrs. Corine W. Williams, Mrs. Savilla Wilson, Mrs. Mildred Poindexter and Mrs. Mary R. Hopkins.

"I push the students," she says, "and make them do, whether they want to or not, and I think I'm a pretty good teacher. At least I've been told that."

All the pictures of her former students, their children and a story about her from the campus publication, the News Argus, are treasures she says one day she'll get around to filing in her photo albums.

Until then, she says, she'll finish out her track record at WSSU, hit the 30-year mark and wave good-bye for good.
