Social workers elect new officers

The Winston-Salem Chapter of the National Association of Black Social Workers recently elected officers for the 1984-86 term.

Goals and objectives also were set for the two-year period.

The newly-elected officers and chairpersons of its standing committees will constitute the organization's executive council.

Members of the council are Roland Douthit, president; Rick Crawford, executive vice president; Diane Smart, recording secretary; Carolyn Ethridge, corresponding secretary; Deborah Thompson, treasurer; Pat Minter and Delores Chaskley, members-at-large; and Marty Penn, public relations coordinator.

The social workers attempt to engage the community in meaningful action and promote self-determination based on sound social work principals, as well as a deep commitment to ethnic and human decency. The organization's present projects include tutoring sessions in the Kimberly Park Housing Project, voter registration, supporting the Black Family Task Force, as well as the Patterson Avenue YMCA membership and building fund.

The National Association of Black Social Workers was founded May 1, 1968 in San Francisco. Since then, over 110 chapters have been established nationwide. Its national conference meets yearly to point out and clarify issues that beset black Americans everywhere.

Membership on the local level is encouraged and welcomed. The organization accepts any individual who is a black human services provider and is willing to accept the goals and code of ethics of the NABSW.

For more information write to P.O. Box 2605, Winston-Salem, N.C. 27105 or by call Marty Penn at 767-3238.
