tions because she said she didn't know if it could be done fairly. "I realize that only a few of the employees have been evaluated at this time," she said Monday night, "but I wish to see figures that are available. I am very concerned about this new salary plan because I have received comments from people who are employed by the city, as well as people who are not employed by the city, about the equitable administration of the new performance evaluation system."

The aldermen directed the city staff to prepare the study for consideration in the near future.

The board also made appointments to a major city development advisory committee, ~~Winston-Salem Civic Ventures~~. The committee will evaluate potential developers interested in developing an eight-acre parking lot across the street from city hall that occupies what has been dubbed the city's "Superblock."

Mayor Wayne Corpening made six of the appointments, which included James K. Glenn, general partner of Quality Oil Co.; Dr. Manson Meads, vice president for medical affairs at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine; John G. Medlin Jr., president and chief executive officer of Wachovia Corp.; local attorney Calder W. Womble; J. Tylee Wilson, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of R.J. Reynolds Industries, and Louise G. Wilson, executive director of the Experiment in Self-Reliance.

Louise Wilson is black.

Among those appointed by the aldermen were Dr. J. Raymond Oliver Jr., a dentist; Dr. James David Branch, an ophthalmologist; Beverly Mitchell, an attorney; C. Edward Pleasants Jr., president of Pleasants Hardware Co.; Kenneth O. Raschke, a manager for AT&T Technologies, and Dr.

Thomas K. Hearn Jr., president of Wake Forest University.

Oliver, Branch and Mitchell are black.

Eight appointments remain to be made before the committee can begin work. Neal A. Bedinger, chairman of the county commissioners, was expected to discuss his appointments at a meeting of the commissioners on Thursday.

Board members also approved by a 7-1 vote a rezoning request from ~~Arrell and Rosa Moore~~ to allow expansion of Moore's Mobile Home Park on 14.6 acres located west of Charleston Drive and south of Davidson Avenue. Alderman Larry Womble opposed the change.

Homeowners in the affected area fought the rezoning, saying it would bring more transients into the neighborhood and lower their property values. Womble, whose Southeast Ward includes the trailer park and surrounding residences, said he had never faced an issue so difficult to decide. He offered a motion to deny the rezoning, but it was defeated for lack of a second.

Alderman Virginia Newell said she initially opposed the expansion, but said the park was in good condition when she visited it and changed her mind.

"When we were coming up, you could get housing if you had a little money," Newell said, adding that those times are past. "I think the people who cannot afford to have a house should have the opportunity to have a place they can afford."

In other business, the board:

- unanimously approved rezoning a .67-acre tract owned by Ruth Lashmit Critz, Robert Burris, John Seely and Ethen Sheryrod from residential to office use. The tract lies on the south side of Country Club Road directly across from the Queensbury Road intersection.

- unanimously approved rezoning 21.45 acres owned by The Rhein Co. and George and Lucille Holmes from single-family to multi-family residential use. The property lies on the west side of Peters Creek Parkway across from Bridgdon Road.

- unanimously approved a site plan amendment offered by The Fortis Co. and the Crosswinds

Homeowners Association for a planned residential development to be located on 20.25 acres on the north side of Swaim Road just east of Ebert Road.

- unanimously approved rezoning 3.36 acres owned by the Heather Hills Executive Golf Village to allow a planned residential development. The property lies on the northeast corner of Ebert Road and Swaim Road.

- unanimously approved a site plan for a residential development planned by the Marrasset Limited Partnership to be located on 14.6 acres on the east side of Stonebridge Drive, north of Country Club Road. The aldermen specified, however, that the development must provide two parking spaces per unit, 20 parking spaces for an amenities area and screening between the amenities area and Stonebridge Drive.

- unanimously refused to rezone a .76-acre tract owned by Wesley Bailey, George Thomas, X.L. Leonard and the Fanny Hill heirs for residential use. The property lies near the southeast corner of Marshall Street and 27th Street. The planning board had recommended denial of the rezoning.

- refused to close a portion of Logan Lane by a 4-3 vote. The closing had been requested by Willie Gwyn. Voting for the closing were aldermen Newell, Burke and Little. Voting against the closing were aldermen Wilson, Harpe, Northington and Wood. Alderman Larry Womble had not arrived when the vote was taken.

The 12th annual Synodical of the Piedmont Presbyterian USA was held at Mary Baldwin College in Staunton, Va., July 26-28 with Ms. Yellock Truman of Grace Presbyterian Church in attendance as the Yadkin's delegate. The theme was "Pass It On: Priests, Prophets and Partners" (photo by James Parker).
