Spirits' Week

Infielder Luis Cruz and outfielder Dave Martinez paced the Spirits to a 6-3 record in a busy week.

Winston-Salem, which played four doubleheaders, gained a game on Durham, which opened the week three games back in the Southern Division's first-half pennant race. The Bulls had a 4-3 week to fall four behind.

Cruz batted a sparkling .486 (17 for 35) and Martinez hit .440 (11 for 25). Cruz raised his average 53 points during the week, while Martinez's league-leading average jumped to .371.

The Spirits' record in the doubleheaders was 2-1-1 (sweep-split-swept) to make the season record in twin bills 5-2-1.

Manager Cal Emery's club continues to get outstanding pitching from its starters, particularly left-handers Carl Hamilton, Jamie Moyer and Drew Hall.

CK COLLEGE PLAYERS IN THE MAJORS

Jamie Moyer

One-third of the Winston-Salem's starts have ended in complete games. Hamilton and Moyer have seven complete games each.

The Spirits also have been in a lot of one-run games. A 3-1 record in nail-biters last week brought the season mark to 13-12

Carolina League Confab

• Lynchburg's Steve Elster was named the Carolina League Player of the Month. Elster, a shortstop, batted .351 during May. The league's managers, who voted on the award, nixed Hamilton, who went 6-0 with a 0.41 earned run average. Hard to believe.

• Durham second baseman Flavio Alfaro saw his string of games without an error come to an end last week. Alfaro, the Atlanta Braves' fourth-round draft choice last June, went 39 games and 183 chances without

• Carolina League attendance was up 51 percent through May, according to the league office. The eight teams drew 167,591 in April and May last year, compared to 252,893 for the same period this year.

Baseball Notes

As it turns out, Greensboro's Eduardo and Roberto Zambrano are not twins. One was born a year before the other. The Boston Red Sox media guide, which lists all players in the organization, had both being born on April 23, 1967.

Appalachian State twins Todd and Tony Welborn were both taken in last week's free agent draft of college and prep players. Todd went in the fourth round to the New York Mets and Tony in the 21st to the Kansas City Royals

Hal McRae, an alumnus of Florida A&M, was delighted to see his son selected in the first round of the draft. What makes the selection unique is that it is likely that Brian McRae becomes the first son of an active player to be drafted. Moreover, Hal's very
