

'Raisin' The Roof

Walter, played by Arbry Felder, comforts Ruth, played by Sylvia Neely, pictured above, and Minnie Mickle, pictured below, portrays the prototype matriarch "Mama Lena Younger" in the production of "A Raisin in the Sun" by First Baptist Church. The play was shown on Aug. 23 and Aug. 24 at the Kenneth R. foods made with lard, coconut oil Williams Auditorium (photos by James Parker).

Getting It On

Oliver Wheeler of Parkview Fire Station races into his turnout gear during the Winston-Salem Fire Department's district competition held last Saturday at the drill tower. The event was coordinated by Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Forsyth County (photos by James Parker).

Angelou speaks at Hunt rally

From Page A1

diverse as the audience, moving from Hunt to South Africa to Nicaragua to women's rights to the injustices black men face in America's courts -- but always coming back to Hunt.

Poet, playwright and actress Maya Angelou, the rally's featured speaker, made that clear.

"I have no particularly new news about the Darryl Hunt case," said Angelou. "I read my Chronicle and I listen with respect in the beauty shops to the women in town."

Angelou said she came to praise the defense committee for banding together as a community to help one of its members in trouble. When one of us is in trouble, we all are, she said.

"Darryl Hunt exists in Minneapolis, San Francisco, Montreal, London and you know how many there are in South Africa," said Angelou. "As James Baldwin said concerning Angela Davis, if they come for Darryl Hunt,... they can come for us in the morning .... Not one of us can say I am absolutely free and do not need a unified community."

Angelou challenged the defense committee to keep on keeping on.

"What they can't prohibit is the strong men and women coming on and getting stronger, getting together," she said.

This rally was organized solely by local women. In addition to Angelou, the speakers included Gail Burnett, mistress of ceremonies and a member of the defense committee; Lee Faye Mack, chairman of the defense committee's community mobilization committee; County Commissioner Mazie Woodruff; Dr. Elwanda Ingram, chairman of the Winston-Salem State University Faculty Senate; Virginia Marcum, president of the local chapter of the National Organization for Women; and Gail Korotkin, a attorney with the Greensboro Civil Rights Fund.

Korotkin, who gave the audience an update on Hunt's appeal, said she also had a second reason for attending the rally -- to speak as a white woman.

"I have to speak as a white woman," said Korotkin. "If Mr. (Donald K.) Tisdale (the Forsyth County district attorney) thinks he's doing all this in the context of protecting white womanhood, that's a bunch of malarkey."

Korotkin said she couldn't tell the audience much about the Sept. 9 court hearing involving Hunt Defense Fund members because the attorneys haven't been able to determine its purpose.

At the last court hearing, Judge Preston Cornelius determined that Hunt was indigent and reappointed his trial attorneys, S. Mark Rabil and Gordon Jenkins, to represent him on appeal. Cornelius also determined that the state has no legal right to request an accounting of the defense committee's funds. But at the same time, Cornelius continued the hearing until Sept. 9.

Korotkin warned the audience to expect rumor after rumor about the defense committee, its attorneys and defense fund organizer Larry Little. Such tactics, she said, are used all over the world to silence any movement.

The Rev. John Mendez, chairman of the defense committee, echoed Korotkin's concerns. "We need everybody's help," he said. "Tisdale is not a problem anymore. The court downtown is not a problem anymore. They have always stood in our way. The only problem is when God's people don't get together."

As much as some wish it would, neither Hunt nor the issues his case has raised are going anywhere, added Eversley.

"Darryl Hunt will not die," said Eversley. .... "No matter how much Don Tisdale or Detective (J.I.) Dauton (chief police investigator of the case) wish this issue to go away, it won't go away. It won't go away because Larry Little is in law school. It won't go away if all the defense committee members are silenced. The Darryl Hunt issue is a matter of truth versus a lie. He's the reason for (the defense committee) being and we want him out of prison."

Fat causes heart disease

The main dietary factor linked with heart disease is a high saturated fat intake, says Dr. May Ann Spruill, extension nutrition specialist, North Carolina State University.

A diet high in saturated fat, like that eaten by many Americans, raises blood cholesterol levels. The higher the blood cholesterol level, the greater the risk of heart attack. Substituting polyunsaturated fat for saturated fat in the diet is likely to lower your blood cholesterol level. This reduces the risk of heart attack.

"The cholesterol you eat raises your blood cholesterol level -- but only slightly. It is saturated fat which raises blood cholesterol," the extension specialist says.

Saturated fat comes from animal sources. It is found in foods like cheese, milk, meat and eggs. Polyunsaturated fats come from plants. Examples are safflower oil and corn oil. Olive oil and coconut oil are the two exceptions. These vegetable fats are highly saturated.

To eat less saturated fat:

· avoid foods fried in animal fats or shortening.

 avoid commercially baked or shortening.

· read food labels to see what kind of fat they contain. If the words "hydrogenated, hardened, partially hydrogenated or hardened, stabilized or specially processed" are used, be aware that some of the unsaturated fat has been changed to saturated

· avoid coconut and olive oils and foods processed with these

Cut your total fat intake, particularly your saturated fats. This is more important than limiting foods high in cholesterol like eggs and liver.

FACTS 0F LAW

By Gregory Davis

Filing a fraudulent will in order to collect money from the estate of an unrelated person may not only provide a criminal charge, but may put the violator in contempt of court as well.

An individual is entitled to make any contract he pleases, so long as no fraud or deception is involved and the contract itself is legal in all respects.

CONVERSION is an act which deprives an owner of his personal property without either his permission or just cause.

A person receiving support payments from a divorced spouse who resides in a different state can bring suit in his or her own state to recover sums owed.

Misrepresenting to a finance company or a bank the amount of income you earn can

Brought to you as a public service by

Gregory Davis Attorney at Law BB&T Plaza. Suite 260 8 West Third Street Winston-Salem, N.C. 27102 P.O. Box 1259 (919) 723-2275

Come to Parks Chevrolet and see John Robinson for one of those little cheeper deals he's famous for!

7.7%

Available on Chevette, Citation, Cavalier, Camaro, Celebrity, Caprice and Impala

Also available on C and K, 10-30 Series Pick-Up Trucks, Chassis Cabs and Crew Cabs, Astro Vans (Cargo), Chevy Vans (Cargo Cutaways)

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY YOUR LUXURY CONVERSION VAN AT THESE REDUCED INTEREST RATES! GOOD SELECTION TO CHOOSE FROM 7.7% Financing Has Overstocked Our Used Car Inventory. Lowering Prices Is The Only Way We Know To Move Them Out.

"The Little Cheeper Dealer" KERNERSVILLE, N.C. Off I-40 at Route 66 Exit

FOR YOU

R. H. BARRINGER DISTRIBUTING CO., INC.

GREENSBORO

WINSTON-SALEM

BURLINGTON

BLIDWEISERS - KING OF BEERSS - ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC + ST LOUIS