GRA-Y offers an alternative

By DAVID BULLA
Chronicle Sports Editor

Winston-Salem's GRA-Y football program is smaller and younger than the better-known Pop Warner League.

Yet, it is an attractive alternative to the highly competitive Warner program.

"Some people like to consider GRA-Y a feeder for Pop Warner," said Program Director Robert Dunlap. "But I don't like for it to be considered a farm league. We're a value-oriented program."

"We have a different philosophy. The difference is we teach. We don't put 100-percent emphasis on winning and we don't cut. Everybody plays. Pop Warner takes the 35 best and cuts the rest."

Indirectly, the 9-year-old GRA-Y program does act as a feeder for Pop Warner because the latter has more age groups.

The GRA-Y's honor roll includes Winston-Salem State's Leonardo Horn, Elon's Chris Christmas, former Reynolds and WSSU player Cedric Moss, Carver's Fernando Horn and Ray Agnew and Parkland's Jacques Biting and Willie McCants.

GRA-Y, which is sponsored in part by the Winston Lake Family YMCA, had four teams this season. Each team was divided into 9-10 and 11-12 age groups.

The league concluded the season last Saturday and the GRA-Y banquet is set for this Saturday at the Reynolds Park picnic area. Festivities begin at noon.

The Hall-Woodward Jets, coached by Thurman Purvis and Linwood McCoy, won the league championship. The Jets were led by split end Carlos Brown.

quarterback Dedrick Young and halfback Larry Dixon.

Coach Purvis said he is retiring Young's jersey No. 21. Young has played for the Jets for four seasons.

Parkland advances in state playoffs

By DAVID BULLA
Chronicle Sports Editor

Parkland's girls volleyball team advanced to the second round of the state playoffs with an easy win over Greensboro Dudley Monday night.

Coach Janet Beavers' Mustangs won the match with game scores of 15-2, 15-9 and 15-0. They hosted North Forsyth, a first-round winner over Reynolds, Wednesday in the second round.

"Our setters (Felecia Cope and Veronica Green) played very well," Beavers said. "Angela Glenn also did a good job spiking."

The Mustangs ran their record to 19-2. Their only losses came early in the season to North and Ledford.

"We weren't playing well then," said Beavers, who played volleyball for Wake Forest in the 70s. "Even though we have several seniors in the lineup, they really hadn't played too much together. It took a while for them to get used to each other."

Parkland had won the Central Piedmont 4-A Conference championship last Wednesday with a difficult match against Kannapolis Brown. The Mustangs won by scores of 9-15, 15-9 and 15-3.

Davis To WSSU?

Former East quarterback Calvin Davis, who was the Northwest Player of the Year two years ago, intends to enroll at Winston-Salem State either in January or August.

The 5-foot-10, 180-pound Davis said he hopes to play football for WSSU. He attended North Carolina Central last year and was the Eagles' backup quarterback. He started in two games (Norfolk State and Hampton University) for injured all-CIAA quarterback Gerald Fraylon. Davis won CIAA Rookie-of-the-Week honors in the 17-13 loss to Hampton.

NCCU Coach Hank Lattimore said Davis dropped out of school at the end of fall semester. "He said that he had personal problems and he was the only person who would understand," Lattimore said.

"I thought I would be better off somewhere else," Davis said last week. "It was nothing personal. Everybody was very nice at Central. It's a good school."

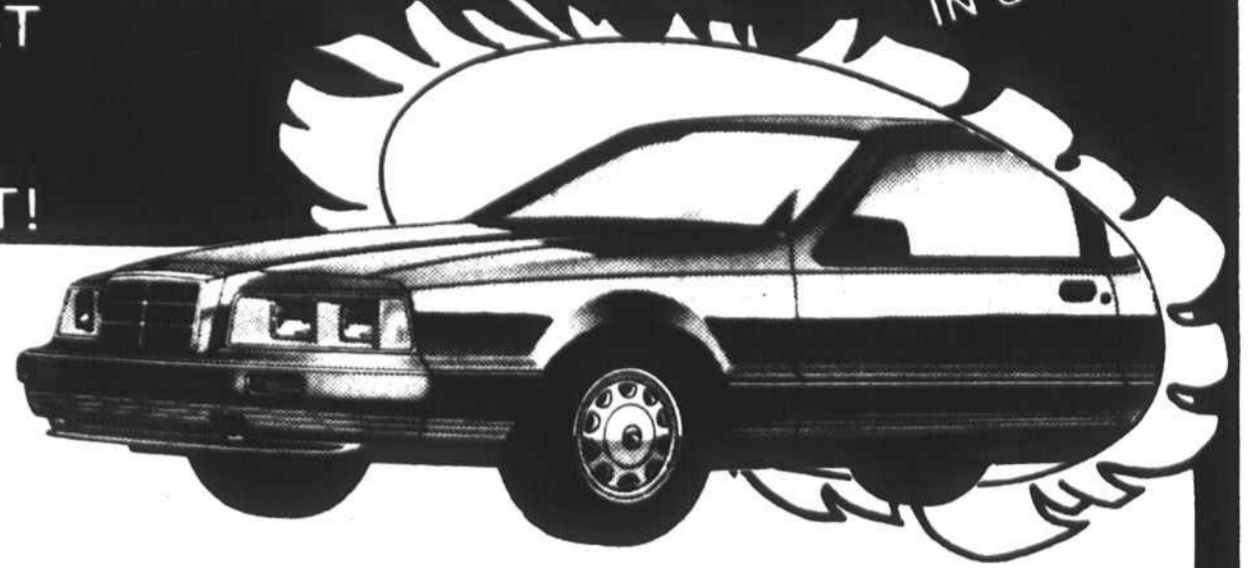

The 19-year-old Davis, now employed at a hardware store in King, said he planned to contact WSSU Coach Bill Hayes at the end of the current season.

Since Davis is sitting out this year, he would be eligible to play next fall if he transfers.
