

Local woman named to Children's Home post

Carolyn T. Montgomery of Winston-Salem has been named to a leadership committee of the Baptist Children's Homes of North Carolina.

She is a member of the first-ever Friends of Children Committee, a group of 35 men and women from across the state.

The committee will work to raise interest and involve persons in the range of family services provided by Baptist Children's Homes. Last year, more than 1,000 children and their families received some type of care from the institution.

"Friends of Children is a group of concerned persons who will provide leadership to help insure reaching the Building Children's Hopes 1986-87 annual fund goal," says Michael C. Blackwell, Homes president. "The goal - $970,000 - will let us continue providing group emergency care, maternity services, counseling and many other services to hurting children and their families.

"Baptist Children's Homes has changed through the years from an orphanage caring for children of dying parents," he says, "to an agency caring for children of dying families."

Baptist Children's Homes

operates a system of group care campuses, emergency care homes, a maternity home, a therapeutic camp for boys, counseling centers and other programs across the state.

Care is offered to children and families without regard to race, creed or national origin.

Headquarters for the agency is in Thomasville, where the institution began in 1885 as Thomasville Baptist Orphanage.

Mrs. Montgomery, a native of Florida, is assistant vice president of Hayes and Associates, a Winston-Salem consulting firm.

She holds degrees from Pensacola Junior College and Georgia State University. Her professional field is as a trainer and developer of human potential.

She has worked with Carolina Power and Light in Raleigh and Georgia Power Co. in Atlanta.

Mrs. Montgomery's community involvement includes positions with the YWCA, Hope Haven of Raleigh and the PTA.

She is also the mother of four children.

The Jewell commemoration of

Friday night, the chapter held its annual dance at the convention center, with more than 200 people attending the gala.

Willard McCloud Jr., president of the chapter, presented a check to the Winston Lake Family YMCA for the Y's continuous work with community youth.

As part of the weekend activities, Alpha brothers in the local chapter and their wives worshiped at Shiloh Baptist Church Sunday, Dec. 7. The Rev. J. Ray Butler, an active member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, delivered the morning message.
