Nominations open for Community Service Award

Nominations are now being accepted for the 1989 Sara Lee Corporation/Charles McLean Community Service Award.

Established in 1985 the award recognizes Forsyth County residents who have made outstanding contributions to the community.

Criteria for nominees includes service to a major segment of the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County population; meeting a need which has not been served by anyone else; serving without substantial compensation; and displaying an ability to motivate people to improve the quality of life in the community.

Past award recipients include Dr. Kenneth R. Williams, and the late Louise Wilson.

Nomination forms are available from the Sara Lee Corp. Awards Committee, P.O. Box 2760, Winston-Salem, 27102 or by calling 744-3676. The deadline for submitting the forms is Feb. 28.

The award, named for Charles McLean, retired NAACP field secretary, will be presented at the NAACP Freedom Fund Banquet March 17.

WSSU to co-sponsor March workshop

Winston-Salem State University and the National Dance -- Exercise Instructor's Training Association will co-sponsor a certification workshop for aerobics instructors Saturday, March 4, in the C.E. Gaines Center on campus.

Potential and current aerobics instructors will receive training in exercise science, injury prevention, basic nutrition and low impact and high intensity aerobics.

The workshop also includes a one-hour videotape, "The New Aerobic Workout," a written exam, a comprehensive aerobics manual, an NDEITA membership card, a certificate and more.

Teaching experience is not necessary. Space is limited. For registration information call 1-800-237-6242.

Sawtooth scholarships now available

The Sawtooth Center for Visual Design will issue $750 in scholarships for classes to both adult and youth students in the coming second session of winter term.

Scholarships are awarded on the basis of financial need and/or artistic merit. Both full and partial scholarships will be offered in ceramics, fibers, graphics, metals glass and photography plus full scholarships in all youth class programs. Application deadline is noon Feb. 13 at which time all applications and recommendations will be reviewed and awarded.

Applications are available at the Sawtooth Center, 226 N. Marshall St.

W-S Symphony Chess Challenge slated for Feb. 11 at Stevens Center

The first-ever Winston-Salem Symphony Chess Challenge will be held Saturday, Feb. 11, at the Stevens Center.

The challenge will feature the Boy's Club Chairmen of the Board chess club in chess matches against the Winston-Salem Symphony's Music Master.

The Chairmen of the Board members and their families will be special guests for the symphony's final dress rehearsal of "Verdi's Requiem," conducted by Peter Perret and featuring 200 voices of four combined community choirs and 80 symphony musicians.

At 12:30 p.m., the chess challenge matches will begin. There will be one sudden-death round with eight boards and eight players per team. The best score will win the game.

The winners also will keep the Symphony Cup for entire year.

The challenge was spearheaded by James Fowler, a symphony board member who also initiated a program at the Salvation Army Boys Club to introduce youngsters to the game of chess.

Don Moore, the executive director of the Boys Club, said that the chess challenge will provide more than a recreational activity for the boys in the chess club.

"I think it will be a unique cultural opportunity for them to mingle with the symphony in dress rehearsal," Moore said. "Overall, I hope it will open up their cultural horizons. They will get to interact with the professional musicians in the symphony."

Fowler began working with the Boy's Club chess club three years ago. Moore said Fowler expanded on the existing program and offered his expertise to teach the young boys the game of chess.

"Jim wanted to teach chess to boys who ordinarily might not have gotten the opportunity to learn about chess," said Moore.
