First Baptist plans 41st 'Messiah'

First Baptist Church's choir will sing its 41st rendition of G.F. Handel's oratorio "Messiah" Sunday, Dec.

Mr. Andrews is directing the performance of "Messiah" for the 12th year. A native of Montgomery, Ala.,

the Tuskegee Quintet.

Mr. Andrews joined the Jubilee Singers of Fisk University in 1952 and toured Europe, North Africa and South America.

Susan Bates will be the guest organist for the First Baptist presentation. She will be involved with her 45th rendition of Handel's "Messiah." She is the organist for Home Moravian Church and serves as a part-time faculty member of the Department of Music at Wake Forest University, where she accompanies the choirs and teaches piano and harpsichord. Ms. Bates also has been a faculty member at Salem College, where she earned her bachelor's degree in music. She has served as assistant university organist and has performed organ, harpsichord and piano in recitals in the southeast, New York, Washington, D.C., and New England.

The guest trumpeter will be Lenny Foy.

Local church and choir members are invited to participate in the church's program.

The choir of First Baptist Church, some members of which are pictured above, will present the oratorio "Messiah" on Dec. 10.

10, at 6 p.m. in the church sanctuary. The choir, supported by four guest soloists, a guest organist, brass ensemble and guest trumpeter, will be directed by D.W. Andrews Jr.

he grew up in Winston-Salem. He is a graduate of Atkins High School and Tuskegee Institute. While at Tuskegee he sang with the university choir and toured for three years as a member of
