

Briggs named administrator at Charter

Judy Briggs, R.N., has been named Children's Program Administrator at Charter Hospital of Winston-Salem.

In this role, Ms. Briggs will be in charge of both administrative and nursing responsibilities for the Children's Program, which serves young people from ages 5 through 12.

There is a great need for expanded services for children, according to Dr. Phillip M. Clifton, medical director and service director for the Children's Program. "We are seeing a growing number of children who are experiencing serious psychiatric disorders," says Dr. Clifton.

"Their problems are complex, in many cases related to societal issues, including increased rates of child abuse, parental drug and alcohol abuse, and higher divorce rates in families."

Some of the more commonly diagnosed problems include obsessive-compulsive disorder, attention deficit order, oppositional behaviors, and psychiatric disorders associated with severe trauma.

With the early detection of psychiatric problems, the opportunities for successful treatment increase dramatically, says Ms. Briggs.

"There is a tendency to think that children will 'outgrow' the problems which they are experiencing, but in many cases what we're seeing is an underlying psychiatric disorder," says the new administrator.

"This disorder can be treated very effectively, but timing is critical. Parents and professionals need to be able to recognize the problems so that appropriate interventions can be arranged on a timely basis."

Ms. Briggs holds the bachelors' degree in nursing from Lenoir-Rhyne College and vocational education teaching certificate following studies at North Carolina State University and Appalachian State University. She has held a variety of management and education positions, including regional associate and clinical evaluator of the New Mexico Head Injury System, and Health Occupations Instructor for the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County Schools. Within the nursing field, Ms. Briggs has served as the director of Nursing with the Medical Personnel Pool and as nursing instructor with Davidson Community College.
