Delta Sigma Elects Officers

The Delta Sigma Chapter of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity Inc. recently elected its officers for 1993. The new officers are Willie Booker, president; Ben Piggott, vice president; Horace Bonner, recording secretary; Robert Brower, corresponding secretary; Rupert

After completion of such prestigious schools as Howard University school of dentistry, Meharry Medical College, and Leonard Medical School of Shaw University, these founders of Delta Sigma decided to invite other honorable men into the chapter. Among those were George Allen, Zebedee Anselly, Marshall Bass, Robert Brower, Jessie Corry, Jakay Ervin, Frizzell Forbes, Everette Martin, Sam Harvey, the Rev. Henry Lewis, Ator-

Bell, financial secretary; John Alexander, treasurer; James Faree, chaplain; and Travis McGriff, parliamentarian.

The Delta Sigma Chapter was founded December 10, 1923 in Winston-Salem by five noble men, whose mission was to perpetuate the high ideals of Sigma: brotherhood, scholarship and service.

Those individuals were: Dr.

distinguished gentlemen started their practices in the Columbia Heights section of the city, which was located in and around Winston-Salem Teachers' College, which later became Winston-Salem State University. Their prestige as doctors, as well as Men of Sigma quickly won them influence and status.

To gain even greater influence and prestige and to win friends, ney James Lassiter, Frank Thomas Sr., and John Henry Alexander. All of these honorable men are still very active in the fraternity today.

Booker, the new president, says that he is honored to be surrounded by such distinguished men with a vast amount of knowledge. "They offer such inspirational support and guidance, and it gives me great pleasure to be in their mists."

CHURCH CALENDAR

SATURDAY, JANUARY 23

Questions & Answers on recovering from grief

Q. I promised my husband that I would not sell our home if he died before me. Now two years later, I find the responsibility of staying in a large house too much for me. What should I do?
A. Once you have accepted the responsibility to look forward and build a new life, you will realize that such promises to your deceased loved one are no longer realistic. If you find that your needs aren't met by staying in your present home now, then give yourself permission to make new plans.

Questions asked during bereavement classes are answered by the editor of AFTERLOSS. For a free copy of one of our new little booklets, Grief is a Process, Not an Event or "I Never Know What To Say!" please call or stop by.
