"When The Chickens Came Home To Roost"

"When The Chickens Came Home To Roost," an award winning play by Laurence Holder, dramatizes the pivotal confrontation between Elijah Muhammad and Malcolm X. Witness the final altercation between these legendary leaders. The play will be performed February 20, 1993, 8 p.m. at Wait Chapel. Don't miss the opportunity to see this chapter in history illuminated on the stage. As described in the New York Times, "(Laurence Holder) has taken a pair of intimidating men and brought them utterly convincingly to life... (He) creates a fascinating tug-of-war between men who once had everything in common - who indeed made history together - and who now find themselves antagonistic strangers."

Thomas Martell Brimm plays the part of Elijah Muhammad and Renauld White is Malcolm X. The play will be performed once only at Wait Chapel, 8 p.m., February 20, 1993. For ticket information contact of Minority Affairs (919) 759-5864.
