

Struggle and Triumph from page A1

Boys' Club said it could no longer finance the program or offer the facilities for the team to practice and play its games. By the 1982 season, a home had been found and with the leadership and dedication of several individuals, the dream was kept alive. WSSU took the program under its wings and offered a temporary home. Still, the program was in desperate financial condition.

Under the direction of Isaac "Ike" Howard the Tiny Indians Football Club, Inc., was founded.

The non-profit program would have to raise its own money and control its own destiny. Two years later, the program moved to its current home, Atkins Field. The program has continued to prosper, although each season the directors struggle to make ends meet. There are currently over 200 boys and girls participating in the program. Many of these would not have an outlet for their abilities if the program did not exist.

The program continues to search to break new ground. However, it is in need of financial support from the community and parents.

The track record of the program is indeed strong. Many of the leaders in the community came up through the program. It is almost impossible to look at a high school football roster in the local school system without noticing the names of former Tiny Indians. We've come a long way, but we've got a long way to go.

We need your support.

Fowler Wins Drawing

Betty Fowler, of Winston-Salem won a 19 inch remote control color TV on Saturday, March 20 at a drawing held at the 14th Street Recreation Center from a ticket sale to raise money for the Tiny Indians Football Organization to pay for equipment and help financially sponsor kids in the program.

According to Wayne Rousseau, president of the Boosters Cub, "This is one of many fund raisers we're planning to have before the season begins. We're going to have a 'mini' flea market and BBQ dinner in May.

"From the ticket sale of the TV we raised $1,040, and profited $707.00 after we bought the TV. Board members and parents begin selling the tickets on February 13. The second place winner was Robert Jarrett, from Winston-Salem, who won a DC player; and the $25 third place prize went to Bob Skinner, of Lewisville. Ten year-old Leon McCorkle drew the tickets," Rousseau said.
