First Black All-Star Tournament

Mid Eastern Athletic Conference Basketball Player of the Year Jackie Robinson of South Carolina State leads an All-Star cast from the MEAC in the first annual Black College All-Star Weekend basketball tournament April 22-24 at the Scope in Norfolk, Virginia.

The tournament pits All-Stars from the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association (CIAA) against the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SIAC) in the opening round game at 7 p.m. on Friday, April 23, while the Southwestern Athletic Conference (SWAC) All-Stars take on the MEAC later that evening.

The MEAC All-Stars along with Robinson are Delon Turner (6'5 forward) from Florida A&M, All Meac and conference leader in scoring at 21.5 points per game, Malik White (6'9 forward) from Morgan, Donell Thomas (6'9 forward) from Delaware State, Charles Solomon (6'9 center) from Howard, and Thomas Garner (6'5 forward) from North Carolina A&T to round out the front court.

White lead the conference in block shots with 50 for the year while placing second in rebounding with nine boards a game. Thomas, another strong rebounder averaged eight boards and 10 points. Solomon, the lone center of the team averaged seven rebounds and 10 points a game. Garner, was the conference's fourth leading rebounder and seventh leading scorer at 15 points per game. In the back court, MEAC first timers Milan Brown from Howard and Marlin Kimbrew from Maryland Eastern-Shore lead the way. Brown place second in the conference in assists with 124, while Kimbrew was more of a scoring threat, averaging 17 points.

The remaining two guards are Darryl Cheeley from North Carolina A&T, the league leader in three point percentage and Robert Riddick from Howard, a consistent guard who averaged nine points a game.

Prime Network will televise the championship game on Saturday, April 24, at 4 p.m. ET featuring the winners from each game.
