

Garvey to be Commencement Speaker for Bible College

Sharon L. Garvey, pastor of First Christian Church in Compton, Calif., will be the speaker for Winston-Salem Bible College's 1993 commencement. Garvey is a native of Grand Bahama Island and a 1970 graduate of WSBC.

For the last 22 years he has been ministering to the South Central Los Angeles congregation. The congregation has grown and operates a school for young people in the community.

After graduating from WSBC, Garvey continued his education at Compton Community College, Azusa Pacific College, Westwood Hill Christian Foundation and California Graduate School of Theology, where he is a candidate for the doctor of ministry degree. Garvey has conducted workshops for the North American Christian Convention and the National Missionary Convention. He serves on the Board of Directors of FOCUS, a national organization of inner-city missions.

There are seven members of this year's graduating class at WSBC. Six will receive bachelor of arts degrees: Wayne Anderson of East Bend, James Coone of Winston-Salem, Billy Gulley of Haysi, Va., Dereck Mushayamunda of Zimbabwe, Seal Tyndall of Winston-Salem, and Robert Williams of St. Louis. Ricky McSpadden of Lexington will receive an associate of arts degree.

The college's primary goal is to train ministers of the Gospel. Alumni who graduated in the past five years are pastoring in Pennsylvania, Virginia, Haiti, Jamaica, Tennessee and North Carolina.

The WSBC Alumni Association will hold a reception to honor the Class of 1993 at 7 p.m. on Saturday. All alumni are encouraged to attend.

Graduation exercises will be held at 6 p.m. on Sunday on the campus, located at 4117 Northhampton Drive.

United Methodist Women Present Speaker

The most recent addition to the organized teams of the United Methodist Women at St. Paul was featured during the general assembly of UMW on April 18. The visionaries team leader is Cleester Hickerson.

Geraldine G. Smith spoke on the subject: "A special kind of Caring-Hospice of Winston-Salem/Forsyth County Inc."

Smith emphasized the need for greater involvement of volunteers to help improve the quality of life for people with limited life expectancy. Sadie R. Daniels, a hospice volunteer, presented the speaker.

A devotional period was conducted by Jimmie Sudler, president.

Betty Woodburn, vice president and chair of the Program Committee, announced the Mother's Day activities which will begin at 8:30 a.m. on May 9. James Ferree, district superintendent, will speak at the Mother's Day breakfast. The Rev. Juanita Tatum will deliver the morning service.

Sacred Hour Ministries Presents "To Teach A Teacher"

Sacred Hour Ministries, Inc. presents Anita B. Baldwin in an all-day seminar entitled, "To Teach a Teacher."

On Saturday, May 8, the seminar will be presented to sharpen those skills already being exercised by church leaders and identify latent gifts in the lay person and their place in ministry.

Designed to help the body of Christ spread the gospel to an ever-increasing needy world, "To Teach a Teacher" will share "Seven Teaching Techniques" pertinent to delivering the Word of God to the people. Other topics such as "Visual Aids and Practical Application of Their Use," "Teaching That Holds Attention" will be included and much more. There will also be guest facilitators making presentations during the day.

The public is invited to enjoy a blessed day from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Anderson Conference Center at 601 Martin Luther King, Jr. Drive on the Winston-Salem State University campus. Registration fee is $30 in advance and $35 the day of the seminar. Take-home handouts, continental breakfast and catered lunch will be provided.

In order to register, submit your name, address and telephone number along with a check or money order to Sacred Hour Ministries, Inc. 2307 North Cherry Street, Winston-Salem, N.C. 27105. Checks may be made payable to Sacred Hour Ministries, Inc. For additional information, please call (919) 721-1803.

Last Weekend For "I Can't Cope"

Only three performances remain of the sensational national product of "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope Cope" (April 30, May 1 at 8 PM, Sunday, May 2 at 3 PM).

Last week, audiences were treated to a special guest visit from TV, stage, and screen star Helen Martin. Martin briefly spoke of the excitement generated when "Cope" first opened on Broadway, and was enthusiastic about the North Carolina Black Repertory Company's production. Accompanied by her nephew, Calvin Oliver, Martin entered the theater to cheers from fans young and old. Throughout the evening, Martin signed autographs and shared laughs with guests.

"Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope," written and composed by Micki Grant, conceived by Vinnette Carroll, has performed to sold out theaters across the country and opened the 1st National Black Theater Festival in 1989 to rave reviews from such distinguished publications as The New York Times and The Washington Post.

"Cope" is an effervescent, spiritually uplifting musical that every member of the family can enjoy. With a theme of hope and songs that reveal a precious history that is unmistakably African American, "Cope" will take you on a non-stop journey through our daily traumas to the affluent vibrations of faith, heralded by shy-teaching tunes rooted in Gospel tradition.

The production, which originated at the Urban Arts Corps under the direction of Carroll, won Grant a Grammy Award for Best Score of an original Cast Show album, Obie award for music and lyrics, Drama Desk awards for lyrics and performance, NAACP Image award and three Tony nominations. The show also received Tony nominations for direction and a best musical. Mabel Robinson, Broadway veteran and an original cast member of "Cope," is director and choreographer of this production. Robinson is a "Who's Who" in the world of Musical Theatre. She is a multitiered, multimedia, critically acclaimed legendary professional in the international spheres of directing, choreography, acting, and instructing of the performing arts. Presently, Robinson is on the Dance faculty of North Carolina School of the Arts.

For this last week, any minister coming to the NCBRC office on Friday, April 30, between 9 AM-5 PM will receive complimentary tickets for his congregation (Sunday performance ONLY). A limited number of complimentary tickets are available for youth and senior citizen groups by calling the NCBRC Box Office at (919) 723-7907. This will be the last opportunity to catch this unique theatrical experience. Part house party, part revival meeting, "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope" is not to be missed!
