

THE BLACK COLLEGE BASKETBALL CLASSIC

The second annual Black College Basketball Classic will be held April 29 - May 2, 1993 at the Arthur Ashe Center in Richmond Virginia.

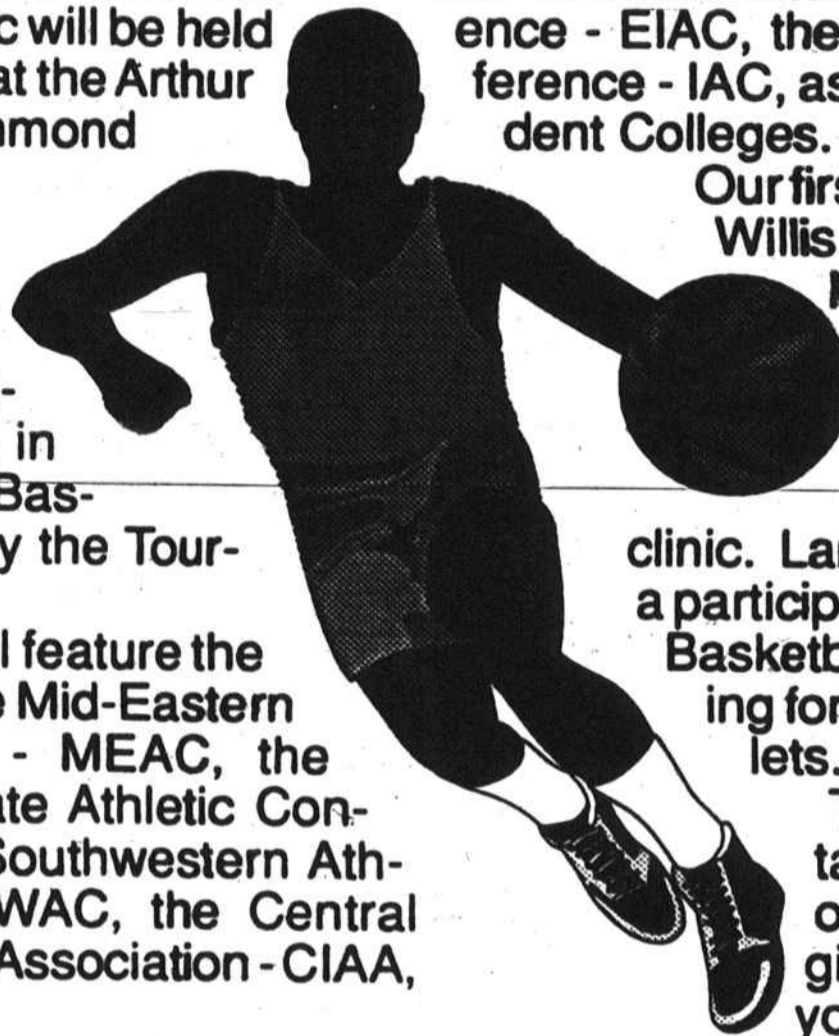

The cream of the crop senior all-stars all come together to play in one of the most exciting basketball events in 1993...Black College Basketball Classic...is truly the Tournament Of All-Stars!

The B.C.B.C. will feature the top 40 seniors from the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference - MEAC, the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference - SIAC, the Southwestern Athletic Conference - SWAC, the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association - CIAA, the Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference - EIAC, the Interregional Athletic Conference - IAC, as well as the Black Independent Colleges.

Our first B.C.B.C. was attended by Willis Reed of the New Jersey Nets, as well as several other NBA scouts. Former NBA player and now Miami Heat scout, Walli Jones coached and conducted a free youth clinic. Larry Stewart of Coppin State, a participant in the first Black College Basketball Classic, is currently playing for the NBA's Washington Bullets.

This ground and air show will take place in the beautiful city of Richmond, the city in Virginia that makes you feel that you are someone special.
