

Black Theatre Festival Gears Up for August Return

Two stars of ABC TV's "Homefront" will appear at 12 p.m. Tuesday at Winston Square Park to help set the stage for the third National Black Theatre Festival, which returns to Winston-Salem Aug. 2-7.

Hattie Winston and Dick Anthony Williams, who play the roles of Gloria and Abe Davis on the television series, will participate in an announcement on plans for the festival. They will be joined by Larry Leon Hamlin, producer of the festival, and James W. Johnston, president and chief executive officer of R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. Johnston will recognize corporate supporters of the event.

Hamlin, who organized the first National Black Theatre Festival in 1989, will announce the stellar list of performers who will be honored and who will participate in the 1993 festival.

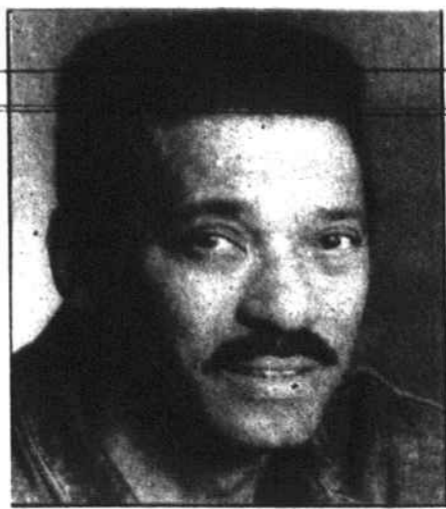

Winston's television credits include starring roles on the comedy on stage, on television and in film. He is a series regular on "Homefront," "Our Family Honor" and "Heart of the City." His film credits include "Edward Scissorhands," "Mo' Better Blues," "Tap," "Gardens of Stone," "The Jerk," "Dog Day Afternoon" and "The Deep." He has guest-starred on television's "L.A. Law," "WIOU," "Hawk,"

"B.L. Stryker," "Trapper John, M.D.," "Archie Bunker's Place," and "The Jeffersons." Some of his telefilm and mini-series work includes roles in "A Woman Called Moses," "Space," "Sister, Sister," and "King," in which he played Malcolm X. His PBS projects have included "Freeman," "Keeping On" and "The Meeting."

The kickoff is being held during an Outta the Bag concert in downtown Winston-Salem. The musical group, Mystic Knights of the Sea, will perform. Bag lunches will be provided for $5, with all proceeds benefiting the festival. Free tickets also will be awarded during the noon hour for festival performances to several people who buy bag lunches.

We think allowing you to return to your normal activities just hours after "No-Stitch" cataract surgery is a great idea. That's why we started doing it 2-1/2 years ago.

Dr. Richard Epes has performed over 45,000 cataract with lens implant surgeries, including over 10,000 of the revolutionary "No-Stitch" procedures in the past 2-1/2 years.

"No-Stitch" cataract with lens implant surgery usually takes less than seven minutes to perform and allows you to return to your normal activities, without a patch, just hours after surgery.

Remember: If you're not sure who to trust, always trust your eyes to experience. Call Southeastern Eye Center today.

"I passed my driver's license test and can drive again since I've had my cataract surgery by Dr. Epes. The day after surgery it was like night and day - the trees looked green and the colors were brighter. If you need to have cataract surgery I recommend you don't put it off and go to Southeastern Eye Center."
