

Angela Bassett to Appear at Black Theatre Festival

Angela Bassett

Angela Bassett, who stars as Tina Turner in the bio-picture "What's Love Got to Do With It," has joined the list of stars to appear at the 1993 National Black Theatre Festival. She has received rave reviews for her role as the sultry singer. Critics and audiences alike are singing praises for her remarkable and breathtaking performance.

Bassett will be an honored guest at the festival's Opening Gala on Aug. 2 at the Benton Convention Center. The festival will run from Aug. 2-7 with more than 50 performances by 24 nationally acclaimed African-American production companies. Tickets for the gala and performances are now on sale at the festival office by calling 723-7907.

Recently, Bassett starred opposite Denzel Washington in Spike Lee's epic film "Malcolm X," portraying Betty Shabazz, the wife of the Muslim leader. Her powerful performance has drawn attention from critics around the country. She also appeared in the critically acclaimed blockbuster ABC mini-series, "The Jacksons: An American Dream." Her role spanned 30 years and was a touching portrayal of Katherine Jackson, the mother of the Jackson family.

Larry Leon Hamlin, the producer and artistic director of the festival, said Bassett will join an impressive list of stars that include Harry Belafonte, Della Reese, Sidney Poitier, John Amos, Clifton Davis, Ja'Net DuBois, Dick Anthony Williams, Hattie Winston and over 40 others.

"Angela's appearance at the festival further exemplifies the historic importance of this event," said Hamlin. "She is having unbelievable momentum in her career. Many young people will have an opportunity to meet and talk with her. She is an extraordinary role model and actress." Tickets to shows and the Opening Night Gala for the 1993 National Black Theatre Festival are now on sale. Ticket prices range from $10 to $20. Tickets for the Gala are limited. Prices are $100 and $80 that can be paid by certified check, money order, Mastercard and Visa. For more information, contact the festival office 723-7907.

Seat Belt Saved Mom and Daughter

During a recent ceremony at the State Capitol, a Winston-Salem family was recognized as living proof of the effectiveness of safety belts and child-safety seats.

North Carolina Secretary of Transportation Sam Hunt presented "Saved by the Belt" certificates to Karen Benbow and 6-year-old Dominique at a ceremony at the Old House Chamber of the State Capitol in Raleigh.

In the incidents involving each family qualifying for the "Saved by the Belt" award, the investigating police officer reported use of a safety belt or child restraint system is what saved their lives.

Benbow was traveling in Forsyth County when her car was hit by another driver in a side-impact collision. The wreck spun the car around causing extensive damage. Dominique, who was in the front passenger seat at the time, was uninjured because she was wearing her safety belt. It is probable that she would have hit the windshield had she not been in her safety belt.

Have a Safe Fourth of July Holiday

Think about safety while enjoying the Fourth of July holiday and vacation. Remember the following safety tips:

Be very cautious when driving long distances. Needless to say, watch other drivers and take frequent rest stops. Stopping from time to time can keep you awake and help you to be more alert. Make boredom, confusion or disagreements. Be sure to include a first-aid kit.

Remember to buckle your seat belts and those of the children.

If swimming is a part of the activities during the holiday, be sure there is a life guard around for deep sure you have a good spare tire in the car. At rest stops, make sure you lock your car when you get out and hold on to hand bags and wallets. If children are traveling with you, watch them at all times. Encourage them to be cautious when using the restroom or make sure an adult accompanies the child.

It's good to be prepared when traveling by car. Water, cups and snacks should be available. A flashlight is a must. Books, games, puzzles and cassettes for young children are entertaining.

These things will keep the children occupied and will eliminate Life nets are good for deep sea fishing or boat rides.

The holiday campers and bicycle riders should play safe. Bicycle riders should always stop and look both ways when turning or pulling out in traffic and use hand signals. Ride on the right side of the road. Don't do tricks in the road, stop at stop signs and never ride double on a bicycle.

Campers should be prepared to control insects and pests. Make sure you have the proper equipment and supplies for camping.
