Sculpture Exhibit

Winston-Salem Delta Fine Arts will present an exhibition of sculpture and painting by artist Lavon Williams Jr. through Oct. 29. An opening reception will be held this Sunday from 3-5 p.m.

The narrative and figurative imagery portrays individuals, social issues and scenes from everyday life.

The public is invited. Exhibit hours are 12-5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Reunion Held

The descendants of Sandy and Louise Beck Miller held their reunion on Sept. 12 at the Old Town Recreation Center. The theme was "Striving for Family Unity through Spirituality and Love."

Relatives and friends traveled from Morristown, N.J. and Oak Ridge to fellowship.

Eugene Miller was recognized as the oldest living member. Michael Eldridge was recognized as the youngest member.

Descendants added their names to leaves on branches of the family tree that was displayed on the wall. Activities included a program, dinner and games.

School of Arts Begins Lunch Hour Readings

North Carolina School of the Arts Chancellor Alex Ewing will kick off the fourth season of the school's "Shorts for Lunch" series on Oct. 5. Ewing will read from P.G. Wodehouse.

"Shorts for Lunch" is a series of selected readings of short stories, novels and other literature presented from 12:15-12:45 p.m., Tuesdays in the Recital Room, fourth floor of the Stevens Center, 405 W. Fourth St. The stories are read by members of the NCSA School of Drama faculty and friends.

Shorts for Lunch is free and open to the public. Downtown workers, shoppers, errand runners or visitors are invited to bring your lunch along -- or just relax and enjoy.

How Much Longer Can This Go On?

Government waste...a bad problem that just keeps getting worse. Every year we pay more in taxes and every year more of our hard earned money goes down the drain. Instead of paying for better schools for our kids, it pays for government perks. Instead of paying for safer, drug free streets, it pays for even more layers of government bureaucracy.

Now, the new federal budget raises some taxes retroactively, but delays most spending cuts until 1997. This is the final outrage. It's time for the American people to put their collective feet down and demand that the wasteful spending stop... before the government asks for one single dollar more in new taxes.

On September 22, the President introduced a plan requiring hundreds of billions of dollars in new spending and taxes to reform the health care system. Some of the new taxes he has proposed are on everything from employees, small businesses and employee benefits, to consumer products such as alcohol and tobacco.

If you and your neighbors call your representatives and tell them to cut spending before raising taxes, we can stop it. To find out how to contact your elected representatives, call toll free 1-800-576-9922 today.
