Florida State star Charlie Ward manages a smile while waiting to do an interview. Ward was named the 1993 Heisman Trophy winner last week with the second-largest margin of votes in the history of the awards.

Clark, Williams Voted Players of the Year

Virginia State quarterback Greg Clark and Hampton defensive end Chris Williams were named the 1993 Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association offensive and defensive players of the year respectively in a vote by the CIAA Football Coaches Association.

Clark, a 6-1, 175-pound senior from Washington, D.C., led the Trojans to a 10-1 season, the best by a Virginia State team since 1947. Clark broke several CIAA single-season marks, passing for 3,437 yards and completing 227 of his passes. Clark also set the conference record with 3,359 total offensive yards and 38 touchdowns.

Williams, a 6-3, 270-pound senior from Houston, anchored a Pirate defense rank at the top of the CIAA. Hampton allowed its opponents a mere 74.7 yards per game to lead a team that finished its season at 12-1.

N.C. Central running back Joe Simmons ended the season with 255 yards to set a single-season mark with 1,699 yards. Simmons was one of four CIAA backs to rush for over 1,000 yards this year. Clifton Davis of Fayetteville State ran for 1,591 yards, followed by Richard Huntley of WSSU with 1,570 yards and Anthony Smith of Hampton with 1,040.

Livingstone running back

Rob Clodfelter became the CIAA's all-time leading rusher, establishing the mark with 4,147 yards. Clodfelter broke the record of 4,075 yards set by former Livingstone runner Jo Jo White.

Fayetteville's Davis broke two CIAA records on his way to a 1,000-yard season. Davis ran for 311 carries and for 17 touchdowns, breaking a pari of marks set last season.

Shell Accepts Job with Panthers

CHARLOTTE— Former South Carolina State star Donnie Shell, a member of the famed Pittsburgh Steelers championship squads, was named the director of community and player relations with the newly formed Carolina Panthers football team Monday.

Shell will move into his new position Jan. 3, according to Panthers General Manager Mike McCormack. Shell's duties will be to oversee programs designed to increase community interaction with the organization as well as prepare players for life on and off the playing field.

Shell was a former All-American at free safety for the Bulldogs before going on to a 14-year career with the Steelers. Shell played on four Super Bowl teams in the 1970s and was a five-time All-Pro selection.

Shell had 51 career interceptions and was named to the Steelers' all-time squad, joining past players Terry Bradshaw, Franco Harris and Lynn Swann.

Since retiring in 1987, Shell has worked as a guidance counselor for several firms that specialized in placement and counseling for athletes. Shell earned his masters' in guidance and counseling from his alma mater.
