Dubose-Little Wins State Title for Achievement

Ann Dubose-Little, assistant principal of Konnoak School, was recently named the State winner for outstanding achievement in human relations for the North Carolina Association of Educators. She was presented with a plaque and $200 at the N.C.A.E. Awards Banquet which was held in Raleigh.

Locally, she was presented with a plaque by the Forsyth Association of Classroom Teachers and a Certificate of Recognition from Donny Lambert, Chairperson of the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County Schools Board of Education.

Her personal efforts to improve educational and social conditions in the school and community are numerous. Little said she first got her start as a community organizer with the Experiment in Self Reliance as a college student. She also worked as a community organizer in Durham for the U.O.C.I. (United

Ann Dubose-Little

Organization for Community Improvement) during her sophomore year. She said these experiences were the deciding factors in her life. Little knew she was born to serve humanity and exemplifies a true commitment to making life better for students in her church, home, school and the community.

Little sings with the Ambassadors For Christ Choir; is president of the Forsyth Assistant Principal's Association; Chaplain and Assistant Secretary of Iota Phi Lambda Beta Alpha Sorority and is the wife of Curtiss Little, Sr.
