Local imam among speakers at global religious gathering

THE CHRONICLE

Religious leaders from all over the world heard from one of Winston-Salem's own last month.

Imam Khalid Griggs, the longtime leader of Community Mosque and a well-known community activist, spoke at the Parliament of the World's Religions in Melbourne, Australia.

Griggs made four presentations on various topics before a crowd of roughly 8,000 attendees during the seven-day conference, held Dec. 3 - 9. Established in the late 1800s, the Parliament's purpose is to promote harmony and understanding amongst the diverse religions of the world.

"What was firmly reinforced was that we are all part of one family, and that's the human family," Griggs said of the convention. "If we are to survive as a species and if this planet is to survive the abuse that we have put on it, we need each other ... There has to be an interdependence that goes beyond faith traditions."

The 2009 gathering marked the second time Griggs has been a presenter.

"It's a wonderful feeling," he said of his participation. "It's a very satisfying and very humbling experience to be in the presence of the Dalai Lama (a Buddhist leader) ... and some of the most thoughtful religious leaders on Earth. It's very humbling just to be among these folks."

Griggs, a Winston-Salem native who was raised in the Christian faith but embraced Islam as a college student, has traveled to 26 countries in his lifetime, often to preach the virtues of his faith.

"I've been very fortunate; it's like it's been part of my destiny to travel," he related. "Growing up, my father was very wonderful about exposing myself and my mother and my sister to so many states ... and even Canada. That travel germ has just grown inside of me."

Griggs says traveling abroad is always a learning experience for him.

"International travel in part broadens your perspective on your own life, and the limits of your own knowledge," he remarked. "I think that we all are to a large degree the products of the sum total of our experiences. Because I've been exposed to such a wide array of people from diverse backgrounds and cultures, it has helped me to be much more tolerant."

the Imam for nearly three decades, accompanied her husband on his most recent excursion. Together, the couple traveled to Singapore to visit friends and to Malaysia. The two have made Hajj pilgrimages to Mecca twice, but neither had ever visited South Pacific the nations like Australia and Malaysia before.

The couple said they were most enamored with Singapore, where they spent a week with a couple that once lived in Winston-Salem.

"If there was any place in the world that I had a chance to live, I would choose Singapore," Mrs. Griggs related. "It's just an excellent place - very beautiful."

Imam Griggs added: "Singapore is a very interesting country. It is so orderly that, for the most part, people do not even jaywalk."

The Parliament on World Religions also made an impression on Safiya Griggs, the City of Winston-Salem's Adult Recreation Program supervisor.

"I learned a great deal; I have things that I plan to do here as a result of what I learned there," she commented. "I'm trying to get more involved with projects and just serving people ... I think when we do that, it brings us closer to the Creator."

Business 40 will close for two years for improvements

The N.C. Department of Transportation has selected the two-year closure option for the Business 40 improvement project in downtown Winston-Salem.

"The voice of the people helped us make this important decision," Transportation Division 9 Engineer Pat Ivey said. "We surveyed thousands of residents, business owners and commuters, and 70 percent of them told us they supported the two-year option."

NCDOT says it conducted an unprecedented public outreach campaign in 2008 to inform citizens that it planned to make major improvements to Business 40 from east of Church Street to west of Fourth Street. The department also asked citizens to choose which construction timetable they preferred for the one-mile section of road. The first option was completely closing Business 40 for up to two years. The second option was partially closing the road for up to six years, with only one lane of traffic open in each direction and some entrance and exit ramps accessible. Extensive surveying showed the public overwhelmingly favored the two-year option.

The Business 40 improvement project involves removing the existing pavement and replacing it with new concrete pavement. The project will modernize the entrance and exit ramps, and replace most of the bridges on and over Business 40 with new bridges that meet current traffic demands and modern design specifications. NCDOT says the project will create a safer, longer lasting roadway that will help drivers get where they need to go more efficiently.

NCDOT has not yet selected a start date for construction as the project is still in the design and planning stages.
