A Lasting Tribute to Our Parents Bishop J.C. Richardson, Sr.

he taught us to continue to be very strong. Daddy had a very unusual way with people. They gravitated to him The one thing that stands out vividly in our because his love, strength, compassion and caring spirit. He helped everyone in the English language. We never heard our mother "split a verb". She would give us a brief lesson if we ever slipped and said anycould preach and teach with out bragging and he was a man of impeccable faith, yet he realized that our time is not God's time.

Just who was this great lady? To Pastor Richardson, Jeanette and Mary Ann, she was Mogmma. To others, she was thought of as a possessed an amazing sense of humor, precious jewel, a confidant, and spiritual, he taught us to continue to be very loving, compassionate, friendly, articulate, intelligent, beautiful, and classy,

Beginning with the subject of divorce, Jesus enlightens all those who will listen. He and His followers are in Judah. As they approach Jerusalem, Jesus again predicts His death. Two of the inner circle come to Jesus with a request: can we sit on your right and left? Now don't be so hard on them, a lot of us do the same thing. Humanity (some of us) seek fame, fortune and power. James and John are still caught up with the worldly view of Messiah. They are referred to as the Sons of Thunder in Mark 3:17. This title is probably based on their ambition. They simply want to be great! Is Jesus, angry with them? I don't think so, but he stresses that they must endure the same cup that He will drink from. Do they understand? No! But they have a desire for greatness. Then they are informed that He doesn't make that decision, God does (Matthew 20:23). Like us, the other disciples are upset because they really want those seats for themselves. Jesus uses this opportunity to teach. It is definitely a teachable moment. The lesson, a paradox, is simple:

to be great, one has to serve,

and death for humanity. for His words and actions are parallel!

Application: For the Christian, it is paramount to remember that our standards are different from the world's standards. With that being the case, we should not get confused. Our banner is service not fame, fortune or power. To really serve, we must be comfortable with who and whose we are. There is no room for jealousy, hidden agendas or back stabbing. "The world says leadership, favoritism ters" (Echoes Adult Teacher Commentary). When the love of God is accepted within, your perspective on everything changes. If we think about it, God already knows us, including every hair on our heads. Lasting greatness is found in service. nothing else. Servanthood, humility and discipleship
