Boys & Girls Club earns 'Bridges' award

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

The Salvation Army Ken Carlson Boys & Girls Club of Winston-Salem has been honored with the Building Bridges award for its club members' outstanding improvement in scholastic excellence. The award is given each year to only one Boys & Girls Club in North and South Carolina whose program is deemed exceptionally worthy by The Salvation Army.

"Academic success is one of our top priorities at The Salvation Army Boys & Girls Club so when we receive an honor like this, we know we are moving in the right direction with our community's youth," said Major James Allison, Area Commander for The Salvation Army of Winston-Salem. "We are so proud of our club members who worked hard to reach their goals." The Building Bridges award is measured by The
