

RELIGION

CALENDAR

Beginning Oct. 24

Missionary Anniversary, Fundraiser

St. Matthew Apostolic Temple, 3640 New Walkertown Rd., will celebrate its Senior Missionary Anniversary on Friday, Oct. 24 at 7 p.m. with Evangelist Josephine Lowery. On Sunday, Oct. 26 at 4 p.m. Bishop S. T. Green and his congregation from Lexington's New Hope Holiness Church will be the guests. The church will have an all-you-can-eat breakfast fundraiser for $7 on Saturday, Oct. 25 from 7 – 11:30 a.m. Call 336-724-1780 for more information.

Beginning Oct. 25

'Brother's Conference'

Born Again Free Deliverance Tabernacle Church of God The Apostle's Faith, Inc., 741 Moravia St., will hold the "Brother's Conference" on Saturday, Oct. 25 at 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 26 at 10 a.m. The Born Again Free Male Choir will perform. For more information, call 336-251-8717 or visit www.bornagainfreechurch.org.

Calvary Hill events

Calvary Hill Church of Greater Deliverance, 4951 Manning St., will hold its 2014 Youth Explosion, "Preparing for a New Beginning," on Saturday, Oct. 25 from 9 a.m. – 4 p.m.

Registration starts at 8:30 a.m. The day will include a prayer breakfast and family fun. All events are sponsored by the church's youth. Also, every Tuesday from 6:30 until 8:30 p.m., the church holds its men's gathering, Men Helping Men be Men. The host pastor is Bishop Claude C. Turner. For more information, contact Elder Kevin Gary at 336-767-4326.

Turner

Beginning Oct. 26

Holy Trinity events

Holy Trinity Full Gospel Fellowship Center, 5307 Peter Creek Parkway, will celebrate and appreciate Co-Pastor Ernestine Miller with a banquet on Sunday, Oct. 26 at 5 p.m. The church will hold its Youth Fall Festival on Wednesday, Oct. 29 from 7 – 9 p.m. Youth of all ages are welcome to attend. The event is free and will include game stations, face painting, enjoyable food, popcorn, drinks and lots of candy. The host pastor is Rev. Richard C. Miller Sr. For information, call the office at 336-784-9347.

Homecoming/Revival

St. Paul UMC, 2400 Dellabrook Rd., will hold its Homecoming on Sunday, Oct. 26 beginning at 11 a.m. Revival will be held Monday, Oct. 27 – Wednesday, Oct. 29 at 7 p.m. Rev. Dr. Marvin Moss, pastor of Salem United Methodist Church of New York City, will speak.

Oct. 26

Pink Sunday

The Home Missions Society of Goler Metropolitan AME Zion Church, 1435 East Fourth St., will celebrate Pink Sunday with a Breast Cancer Awareness Luncheon on Sunday, Oct. 26 at 12:30 p.m. Freda Cowan, a nurse practitioner at Wake Forest Baptist Health, will speak, and the theme is "Fight Back Against Breast Cancer." Luncheon ticket donations are $10. Call 336-723-2325 for more information. Rev. Johnny L. Ruff is the pastor.

Ruff

See Religion on B5

PRAISE THROUGH SONG

Prison ministry sponsoring concert

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

New Vision Evangelistic Prison Ministry, Inc. will present "An Evening of Song & Praise" on Saturday, Oct. 25 at 5:30 p.m. at Freedom Baptist Church, 1222 E. 14th St.

Special guests will include the Williams Memorial CME Church Male Chorus of High Point, the Rowan County Praise & Worship Team of Salisbury, Just Sangin of Tobacoville, saxophonist John Frazier III, Anointed Voices of Solid Rock, Jeremiah Salter & NuPraise and Step of Faith Mime Dancers.

Elder Kendra Davis of Greater Cleveland Avenue Christian Church will be the mistress of ceremonies.

The Ministry was formed and founded in April and is made up of various clergy and lay people from different denominations and walks of life. Members hail from throughout the Piedmont/Triad. The non-profit organization is active monthly at Forsyth County Jail and Cherry Street Prison in Winston-Salem, the North

Press Photo

Jeremiah Salter (seated, center) with members of NuPraise.

Davidson Correctional Center in Lexington, the Rowan County North Piedmont Correctional Center for Correctional Center, the Piedmont Women and North Davidson Correctional Correctional Center in Salisbury, the Albemarle Correctional in Badin, the Albemarle Correctional in Lexington.

THINKING PINK

Submitted Photo

Members of Emmanuel AME Church of Durham held their second "Think Pink Sunday" on Oct. 12. Breast cancer awareness was acknowledged with testimonials by each one of the four breast cancer survivors in the church. The four are shown sitting behind the pink blanket in the photo above.

Miller speaking at Antioch

Grant for WFU Divinity

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

Men's and Women's Day at Antioch Baptist Church, 5061 Lansing Drive, will be on Sunday, Oct. 26. It will feature words from Cassandra Miller, a powerful speaker who hails from Atlanta. The service will begin at 11 a.m.

Inspired by the Holy Spirit and the Christian walk of her grandmother, Sarah Howell Cain, her childhood pastor, Rev. E. L. Clarke, her mother, Hilda Smith, and stepfather, Rev. Francis Smith, Miller sought a deeper understanding of God.

Miller

Her passion to encourage others led her to help establish the "Praying Women Warriors International Ministry," which encourages women around the globe to pray together at around the same time. At the ministry's first ever conference in Greensboro, pastors from across the county and parts of Africa were in attendance.

A native of Mocksville, Miller holds a bachelor's degree in management information systems from Winston-Salem State University and an MBA in marketing. She is pursuing a second master's degree in leadership and organizational change at Pfeiffer University.

She is a former member of Winston-Salem's Shiloh Baptist and Union Baptist churches. She currently attends New Birth Missionary Baptist Church in the Atlanta area. Rev. Dr. J.L. Montgomery is the pastor of Antioch Baptist.

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

Wake Forest University's School of Divinity has received one of 10 grants awarded to theological schools by the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS)'s "Science for Seminaries" program. The project, "Moving Science to the Forefront of Theological Education," will enhance the school's leading interdisciplinary Master of Divinity curriculum by integrating science into three different areas: biblical studies, historical studies and theological studies.

Several introductory courses in the Master of Divinity curriculum will undergo revision in order to raise awareness of the relevance of science and increase the competency of future religious leaders who can integrate knowledge and understanding of science into the public discourse of the faith communities they will lead. Among the courses include:

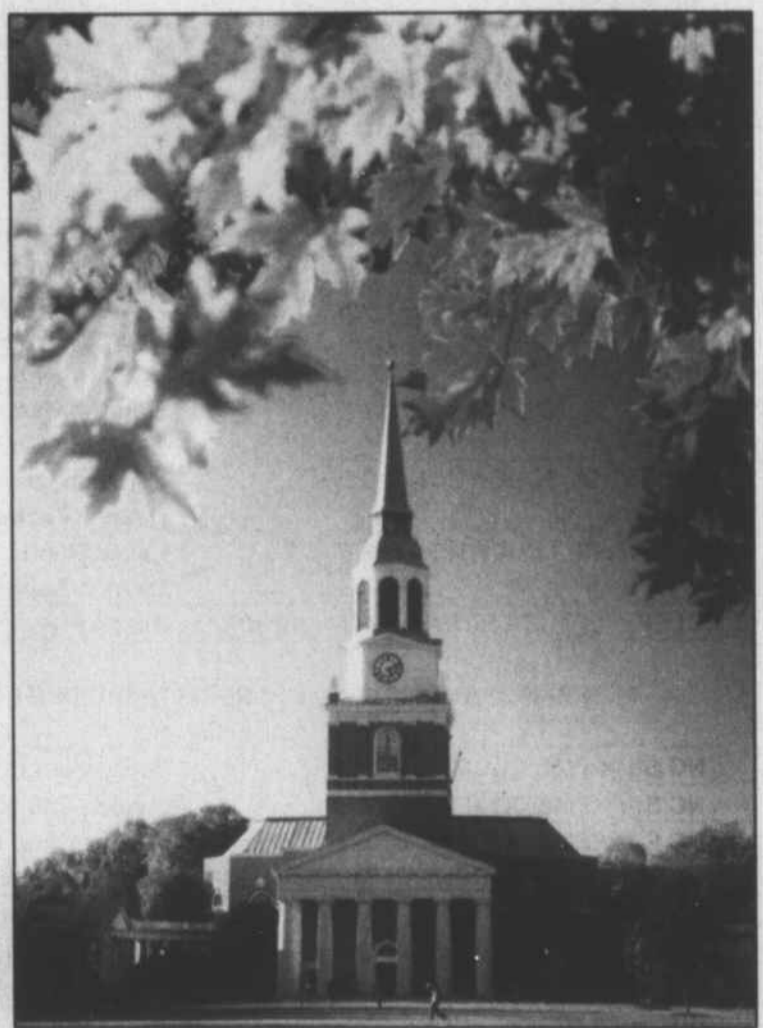

- "Myths of Creation" – Neal H. Walls, associate professor of Old Testament interpretation, will develop a section within this course – which explores mythological texts concerned with the origins of the cosmos, gods, and humanity – that surveys the recent scientific understandings of cosmology, cosmogony and the evolution of human life.

- "The Scopes Trial: Darwinism and Anti-evolution in American Religion" – Bill J. Leonard, professor of church history, will develop this new course that will utilize the Scopes Trial of 1925 as a case study for examining the evolution/anti-evolution debate that continues to impact religion in the United States, public school education, and politics.

- "Foundations of Christian Ethics" – Kevin Jung, associate professor of Christian ethics, will revise several components of this introductory course to include contemporary scientific studies from evolutionary psychology, sociobiology, and neuroscience so that religious leaders can discuss major scientific issues that inform ethical decision-making in our day.

So that the impact of science education is felt beyond individual courses, the grant will also enable the School of Divinity to offer lectures by leading scientists and to host a conference on an issue of science and religion that is pressing for today's religious leaders and the communities they serve.

The project's first public lecture will be held later this month. Jed Macosko, associate professor of physics, will present on "Understanding Biophysics through the Lens of Darwinism." This lecture is free and open to the public. More details can be found at divinity.wfu.edu.

WFU Photo