

GIDE participants headed to the circus thanks to the Rotary Club of Clemmons.

Submitted photo

Agency in need of funds for summer program

BY CHANEL DAVIS
THE CHRONICLE

A local agency dedicated to providing educational alternatives for teenagers who don't have a place to go after school is looking for the public's help with funding.

The Guiding Institute for Developmental Education Inc. is a nonprofit organization whose mission is to "enhance the life-long learning, character building capacity for under-served youth and their families."

The agency is holding a fundraiser, titled "One Enchanted Evening," a romantic dinner and dance, with proceeds going to the program's summer initiative.

"We are very excited about the event. We have some of the best performers in the region and nation," McClain said.

The event will include music from Martha Bass, Chris Murrell and The Phase Band.

The organization serves roughly 200 middle and high school students with target areas that include public housing and low-income housing communities.

Most of the families are residents in the Cleveland Avenue Homes, Townview Apartments, Rolling Hills Apartments and surrounding communities. The agency teaches the following values: reliability, learning, inclusiveness, integrity and leadership.

The agency serves students and their parents with the use of S.T.E.M. (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) curriculum and literacy-based instructional tools and methodology. The after-school program does this through arts education, youth sports, family literacy, health education and character building programs.

"Across the state, funds have been cut for community-based after-school programs because of the funds being forwarded to the school system," he said.

Board chair Ward Miller said that helping these children is a way for the agency to give back to the community.

"We have a lot of kids who sometimes don't get what they need during the regular school hours and they need some additional help after school. We are there to fill that void," he said.

The program is modeled after the 21st Century Community Learning Centers of North Carolina, according to its website. The CCLC program, funded by the N.C.

Department of Public Instruction, funded GIDE for four years beginning in 2010. The grant provided the organization with $384,000 a year for four years reducing funding in the last two years, 20 percent and 40 percent respectively. That money ran out last year.

"We had some local funds, held some fundraisers, and had some individuals that made some contributions. We've recently received $150,000 from the Piedmont Federal Savings Bank to be distributed over three years, $50,000 a year," he said. "We also received $20,000 from Goodwill through the Gang Prevention and Dropout Prevention program."

The agency is also sponsored by The Rotary Club of Clemmons and The New Canaan Society.

McClain said that the agency still needs more.

"We are trying to raise money so that we can have a summer program.

We've got funds to last us to the end of the school year but are trying to raise funds to hold the summer program," he said.

McClain said that the results are worth every penny.

The organization keeps the kids busy and out of trouble, while giving them a chance to get one-on-one tutoring or help on a specific subject.

"We've got kids who have been through our program who are now in college or in law school," he said. "They (the kids) look forward to the program because it provides some assistance for them. Some of our kids parents aren't able to help them with their Algebra and higher courses. We have teachers to help them."

The event will be held at the Village Inn and Event Center's Crystal Ballroom in Clemmons on Friday, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Admission is $100 per couple with $50 as a tax deduction.

Miller said that he hopes the agency can continue the event.

"We hope that this can be a signature event for us to raise funds and raise awareness in the community about us," he said.

For tickets or more information, call 336-602-0565 or 336-254-1116 or email bill.tcewp@gmail.com or tamarampatterson@yahoo.com.

TLOD salutes local women

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

The Winston-Salem Chapter of Top Ladies of Distinction Inc. recently held its "Salute to Ladies" Awards Luncheon and the induction ceremony of nine new members at the Hawthorne Inn and Conference Center.

The "Salute to Ladies" is a formal recognition of local women for outstanding achievement across the broad spectrum of the service arena. Phenomenal Women from the multifaceted fields were honored and presented a monogrammed crystal upright standing plaque. They were also featured in the program's souvenir book. The following women were honored: Mechanics & Farmers Senior Vice President/Piedmont Triad Regional Executive Evelyn

Acree; Winston-Salem Mayor Pro Tempore Vivian Burke; Ervin's Beauty Services & Beauty Mart Co-owner Dr. Minnie J. Ervin; Novant Health Senior Vice President of Physician Services and Interim Chair of Neurosciences Dr. Chere Grogery; longtime community volunteer and advocate Doris Herrell; Hanesbrands Corporate Human Resources Director Cheryl Lindsay; State Sen. Earline Parmon; and State Rep. Evelyn Terry

Mayor Allen Joins presented Top Ladies of Distinction with a proclamation and congratulated the honorees and newly-inducted members. The Mayor proclaimed Dec. 6, 2014 as "Top Ladies of Distinction" Day in the city. Gov. Pat McCrory also sent a proclamation in recognition of TLOD's service to the community. It was presented by Sen. Earline Parmon.

Dr. Sherrie Flynt Wallington, an assistant Professor of Oncology and program director of the Health Disparities Initiative at Lombardi Comprehensive Cancer Center at Georgetown University Medical Center, was guest speaker.

Lady Bobbie Miller is the TLOD chapter president. The Salute to Ladies Awards Luncheon Chairperson was Lady Annie Lassiter. Other officers are Lady Doris Herrell, 2nd vice president and membership chairperson; Lady Sharon Debnam, 1st vice president and program chair; Lady Lillian Satterfield, financial secretary; and Lady Barbara Stowe, TTA advisor.

Danny Freeman

DARDA
Financial Services, LLC

Tax Preparation
Investment Management
Financial Planning
Accounting * Business Consulting
Life & Long-Term Care Insurance

8100-F North Point Blvd.
Winston-Salem, NC 27105
757-1222 or toll free 877-825-2512

Dhani Jones
Sports Honoree (not shown)

Kevin Liles
Entertainment Honoree

Henry Coaxum
McDonald's Owner/Operator Honoree

Al Sharpton
Humanitarian Honoree

Iyanla Vanzant
Inspirational Honoree

Will Packer
Arts & Entertainment Honoree

Gabrielle Williams
Community Choice Youth Honoree

Skyler Grey
Community Choice Youth Honoree

Winter Wellness event to feature health checks

SPECIAL TO THE CHRONICLE

I'm My Sister's Keeper (IMSK), a faith-based organization dedicated to the health and healing of the whole woman, will host a Winter Wellness Event on Saturday, Feb. 21, from 12-3 p.m. at Secrets, 875 Northwest Blvd. Admission is $5 per person.

There will be vendors on hand, health checks and screenings, Praise Kraze exercise and more.

The organization's mission is to "Equip, Educate & Empower." This newly formed organization was created to develop a network of support, education, training, and healing for women who have suffered from domestic violence.

This event is a fundraiser to aid in bringing awareness to Domestic Violence.

All monies raised go toward the program and services provided by IMSK.

For additional information, email immysisterskeeperws@gmail.com or go to www.facebook.com/wsimmysisterskeeper.

LOVIN' BY EXAMPLE.

Here's to the leaders that don't talk about dedication, they show it. To the people who constantly perform selfless acts as they reach out, reach back and bring others along. We show our gratitude during Black History Month, but we applaud you everyday. Let's all be inspired to stay deeply rooted in spreading the love, 365 days a year. Find your motivation at 365Black.com.

365BLACK