this radical movement. After Stephen's death, Saul got permission from the Sanhedrin to go to Damascus to arrest other believers. On the way to the city, he and his companions experienced a bright light that knocks them to the ground. His transformation begins. Only Saul experienced verses 4-19a. Ananias, though hesitant at first, went to him in Damascus and assisted in his transformation. He spent three years (Zondervan's NIV Study Bible) in Arabia "praying, reflecting and examining Jesus through the eyes of Jewish Theology" (UMI Precepts for Living). Then he visited Peter in Jerusalem for a few days. Needless to say, the believers were suspicious of this new convert. Saul returned to Tarsus, his home.

Lesson: Each time a plot is devised to kill Saul, believers rescue him. Saul goes back to Jerusalem, where the people remain cautious. Barnabas brings him to the apostles, bearing witness to his bold preaching in Damascus. The second threat to his life is foiled and some believers get him to the port city to send him home to Tarsus. Notice that individuals reject Saul but Jesus never did! He is transformed for His purpose. So are we! As we "become," believers will bear witness to our boldness.

Life's Application: Church folk should not be so quick to reject other believers. After all, we were dead in our sins until we accepted Christ. When we are rejected, stay the course and stand on your beliefs. Your witness cannot waiver. Be bold! Saul's personality doesn't change. He continues to be fiery and bold for Jesus. God meets us where we are and molds us into what He wants us to be. Don't get caught up in the external; acceptance is nice and comforting but not necessary to be a witness for Christ.
