ister to the needs of early age and elementary children.

Jones said, "I believe that children are a worthy investment that will pay off dividends not only for our local church, but for society as a whole. Kid Zone is the type of facility that I wish I had been exposed to when I was their age. Statistics show the majority of people that decide to follow Jesus Christ do so before the age of 18, which behooves the local church to invest heavily in order to influence our children to choose Jesus Christ at an early age."

Pastor Tony continued, "This is just the tip of the iceberg as we plan on doing further investment in our facility to minister to middle and high school students as well, because we have to meet today's generation where they are."

always puts the youth first. Any time we are in need for school supplies are anything like that, its just amazing how they look out for the kids who are starting school. You can really tell they care for the youth."

The theme of this years' convention is "Reaping the Harvest" because the church wants to focus on evangelistic works. Church Pastor Claude C. Turner was very happy with the way the convention turned out and glad the kids had the opportunity to receive school supplies.

"We want to be an outreach ministry and go where the needs are in our community," said Turner. "We have had an awesome week this week and today is our fun day. The main thing for today is the school supplies for the kids and just having a Holy Ghost good time."

The convention culminated with a service on Sunday, Aug. 21, in which Pastor Turner delivered the message.

Dennis Jeter III summed up the day by saying, "We are having a great celebration and everyone is enjoying it and we are happy to help the kids."
