Democrat Hillary Clinton, who is a former first lady, senator and secretary of state. Early Wednesday morning, she disbanded what was planned as a victory party and called Trump to concede.

Clinton had the most actual votes as of presstime, however.

Trump's victory speech had a conciliatory tone after a divisive and nasty campaign, in which he called his opponent "Crooked Hillary."

Trump won North Carolina by a little more than 3 percent. The billionaire and reality TV show star, who had no government or political experience, campaigned as an outsider with a slogan of "Make America Great Again."

Trump's been a controversial candidate. His rhetoric and policies garnered him endorsements from the likes of the Klu Klux Klan. His positions have included a ban or increased scrutiny on Muslims entering the country, building a border wall to keep out the "criminals, drug dealers and rapists," he said Mexico was sending to the United States and implementing the random police searches of "stop and

Along with the national and state races, there were many local contests on Tuesday's ballot.

The City Council will soon have a new member, as John Larson won the South Ward race.

"We're very pleased with the support that's been given to me by the South Ward," said Larson. "I take it as a strong endorsement of my candidacy, and I take it as a mandate to move forward to represent the South Ward."

It's been a long election for Larson, who is retiring from his position as vice president of restoration at Old Salem

Museum and Gardens. He originally lost the primary by six votes to Carolyn Highsmith, but appealed to the State Board of Elections, who called for a do-over because some voters received incorrect ballots. Larson decisively won the second primary.

The rest of the City Council remains intact. Jeff MacIntosh, who represents the Northwest Ward,
