

AS THE CLOCK STRUCK ONE

A Romantic Wedding in Phoenix Parlor this Morning

COUPLE FROM ROANOKE

A Quietly Solemn Occasion in Phoenix Parlor—Nobility Present Except Officials and "Witnesses" of Whom There Were Several—The Story of a Story and How It Happened.

The midnight quiet had fallen over the city outside. The city clock had just struck twelve about fifteen minutes before, and had forgotten about it, when a phone on the Journal desk jingled merrily.

"Can you come down to the Phoenix a minute or two?" came the voice of Dr. Grainger who knows everybody and everything.

"Sure," went back the reply. Interesting things happen at hotels sometimes, so the newspaper man banished from his mind the Bryan reception, grabbed a roan of paper from his desk and hiked it to the Phoenix.

Dr. Chretzbarg and two or three others were standing around expectantly. "Just a runaway marriage," said one. "We thought you liked to attend such things."

"Oh, certainly," said the reporter as he wondered if his hair were combed.

After about a half hour, during which Dr. Chretzbarg, who had been awakened by a phone message, wondered secretly if he had been "sold," the couple escorted by Captain Phillips, of the Southern, came up. After they had entered the cozy apartment of the Phoenix parlor, probably a half dozen loitered awkwardly in the aisles, not quite having the nerve to "blow in." A few, the captain, the minister, Register, Mc-Kaffghan, the press representative, the hotel clerk and the bytes, who said he had had experience as a witness went in.

At the word from Dr. Chretzbarg, the party rose and the couple faced him. He then repeated solemnly and earnestly the beautiful wedding ceremony of the Methodist church. The scene was a quiet one. There was no pealing organ or chanting choir, but the occasion was impressive. To the couple it was all important. The expressive eyes and handsome face of the bride clearly showed that it was the crowning moment of her life.

As Dr. Chretzbarg pronounced the final words "I pronounce you husband and wife," there came floating through the window the sound of the sweet voiced bell of the city clock, striking the hour of one.

The bride, (we've been a long time getting to it), was Miss Pearl Greenway, of Roanoke, Va. The groom was Mr. John T. Earns, also of Roanoke. They came down on the Roanoke train and will return this morning. There was no parental objection. They merely wished to add a touch of romance to the occasion and to "surprise their friends."

The bride who is a handsome blonde was tastefully and becomingly attired in a dark-brown traveling suit. This is added to make the story complete and for the benefit of genuine readers. The Journal extends to the happy young couple the warmest of congratulations and the sincerest and most cordial of hearty good wishes.

COLORED BOYS PUT IN LOCK-UP

Trio of Youngsters Broke Into Store and a Residence

A HARD LUCK CASE

Negro Boys Entered a Store, Selected a Grade of Tobacco Which Satisfied Their Taste and Helped Themselves Liberally—Also "Tuk" a Gold Watch—A Young White Man in Trouble.

Joe Koverer (that's the way he pronounced it), Will Simpson and Lyddell Pea, three colored boys, were locked up last night for larceny. Wednesday evening they entered the store of Mr. J. H. Hill in the corner of Main and Liberty streets and took a half keg of tobacco which suited their taste, and a number of other things. They also entered the residence of Mrs. Fannie Case, and potted around, down stairs and up, finally deciding to take a lady's gold watch. At three o'clock this morning the trio were in the lock up wide awake and talkative. They seemed in good spirits.

A young white man, just recovering from a prolonged spree was in an adjoining cell. He spoke to the news gatherer and asked him if he were the chief. He replied no. The incarcerated one then proceeded to unfold a tale of woe. His father had consumption he said, and he came to town to get him some medicine. He drank too much whiskey, and had been locked up. He wanted to go home to his sick father.

"Got consumption, has he?" said Turney Rothrock, when the case was mentioned to him. "He told me about fifteen minutes ago that he had chills and he came after some chili medicine."

So the reporter put his pocket-book back into his pocket and strolled out.

The Asheville division superintendent's office reports that it does not know the extent of damage; that communication is badly interrupted and that traffic for the time is suspended. It is said, however, that the cloudburst washed away about three miles of track; that the roadbed is damaged; that several small bridges are gone, and that a big landslide occurred.

The big steam shovel used by building the local freight yards here has been sent to the scene, also several work trains and the derrick engine and big forces of men. The superintendent of the Knoxville division and Superintendent Ransauer of the Asheville division are on the scene. Telegraph wires and poles are also down. No trains are able to pass the scene and everything is tied up.

RIVERS HIGH.

Present Weather Has Damaged Crops Greatly, Says Mr. Kerner—Interfered With Court.

It was learned yesterday through Mr. J. G. Kerner, of Kernersville, who was passing through here en route, to his home from Dobson, that in the rivers and creeks of that section there are ten to twelve feet more water than usual. The bottom lands on the sides of the streams are totally covered and the corn in some places can not be seen.

"This weather is certainly bad on crops," says Mr. Kerner "and the farmers are looking a bit gloomy over it." It was also learned that the cases disposed of in Surry court this week were few and unimportant. All streams in and around Dobson are greatly swollen and owing to the fact that most of the trestles between Astral and Mr. Airy have been washed away witnesses from Mr. Airy could not be secured. Those at Dobson from Mr. Airy can't get home until the bridges are repaired.

Wilkesboro trains are still transferring all passengers, mail and baggage for points west of Crutcheville. It is reported that in all about 200 hands are working on the washouts on the Old Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley and the Greensboro-Wilkesboro roads. No through trains are expected to run until the first of next week.

An elegant supper was served to the large and congenial crowd which was present. The Winston Corner Band discoursed excellent music and everybody had a good time. Mr. George Norfleet presented the band with a huge w. h. m. m. m.

WHEN DOG DAYS GO OUT WET, ITS A SIGN OF RAIN.

They were leaning back comfortably against the counter. Outside the trolley cars rocked by the gleam of their lights shined into a thousand iridescent fragments by the falling torrents of rain.

"Doctor," said the man without an umbrella, "How do you explain the tremendous excess of rain we've been having? I understand that the meteorological experts are completely dumfounded."

"Well, sir, I've got an explanation," said the doctor. "I asked a man that question the other day and he answered it for me. 'When dog days go out wet,' said he, 'it keeps on raining.' Then I shut up."

And outside it rained.

Messrs. Andra, Mickle and Tom Patterson returned yesterday from spending a day or two at Guilford.

HIPPLE DEAD BY HIS OWN HAND

His Suicide is Now Admitted as a Fact By Coroner King

THE RECEIVER'S WORK

Coroner Admits That He Believed It Was a Case of Suicide All Along But Withheld the Fact in Order to Prevent the Possibility of a Run On the Bank by Its Depositors, in the City.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 30.—The suspicion entertained that Frank K. Hipple, president of the embarrassed Real Estate Trust Company, who was found dead at his home in Bryan Mawr, Pa., last Friday, committed suicide, was confirmed today by Joseph S. King, coroner of Montgomery county. When he made the announcement Dr. Albert H. Read, the coroner's physician, was standing near and he added:

"You can see that Mr. Hipple blew out his brains."

Since the death of Mr. Hipple the family physician and the coroner maintained that he died of cerebral hemorrhage while taking a bath. The coroner today said:

"When I went to Bryan Mawr Friday morning to investigate the sudden death of Mr. Hipple I found that he was the president of a trust company, and when I discovered he had committed suicide I decided to suppress the fact for a few days in order to prevent a run on the trust company. I thought that if there was anything wrong in Mr. Hipple's transactions the directors would have a chance to make up whatever defects there were."

"Did any of the directors of the bank or members of the family request that the facts of the suicide be suppressed?"

"No, sir, they did not. Any action taken by me was voluntary."

"Several men prominent in legal affairs told me today that I did right in suppressing the facts until the directors of the bank had a chance to make an investigation."

CAUGHT BY BALLOON ANCHOR.

Whirled 500 Feet in Air, Brooklyn Woman Has Narrow Escape From Death.

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Caught by the anchor of a balloon and whirled 500 feet in the air over the heads of 5,000 spectators, Mrs. Roper, of Brooklyn, was seriously but not fatally hurt today at the Ulster county fair at Ellenville. A professional woman astronomer, who has been making daily ascensions at the fair grounds in a hot air balloon, had just entered the car this afternoon and was about to give the order to cast off when the balloon broke loose and sailed upwards with the anchor trailing. Before the bystanders could scatter, the anchor fluke caught in the dress of Mrs. Roper and she was whipped into the air screaming. As soon as the woman in the balloon caught sight of her involuntary fellow-voyager swinging far below at the end of the rope, she at once pulled the safety cord. The balloon, which by that time had reached an altitude of 500 feet, quickly descended and reached ground a quarter of a mile from the point of ascension. The woman struck the ground heavily and when picked up was found to be unconscious and to have sustained fractures of the shoulders, ankle and several fingers.
