I. O. O. F.—The forty-sixth anniversary of Independent order of Odd Fellows, will be celebrated throughout the country on the 26th inst. Forty-six years ago the peculiar tenets of Odd Fellowship were introduced into this country by Past Grand Wilder, and the first lodge was instructed we believe, in Baltimore. Since that time it has spread all over the Union, and today there are many thousands of the best citizens of the country who are proud to call themselves members of the order. In this city there are several hundred Odd Fellows, and they, in common with members of the order elsewhere, are making preparations for a grand celebration. There will be a grand parade on the 26th, after which addresses will be delivered at the Opera House, and the celebration is to wind up with a grand supper. In common with all other institutions, this order has suffered much by the late war, but there is yet left great vitality and their demonstrations on the 27th inst will prove it.—Norfolk Day Book.

Double Suicide.—Two young girls, aged respectively fifteen and sixteen, took poison in a very social way together, last Wednesday, in Brooklyn, with a view to suicide. When found they were nearly dead, and it was thought they could not recover. They left the following note:

Dear Mother:—I left Hoboken on Saturday, at 8 o'clock—myself and Rosa. We went away, and staid away until Tuesday following when we ended our lives. I have never had any comfort since I came back from the country. I hope to meet you in heaven. Farewell, dear mother and sisters, forevermore. Kiss little Kitty for me, not forgetting Patty and Jenny and the little baby. We both died on the same day and both in the same way. My heart is broken. My love to Mr. and Mrs. Malloy. My sister's residence is 158 Bloomfield street, above Fourth street.

ELIZABETH WARRY. ROSANNA McDONALD. P. S.—Good bye! good bye! good bye! We were always together, always loved one another heretofore—we die together.

THE HUNNICOTT CONVENTION.

The Convention met at 10 o'clock. The prevailing feeling, shown in the speeches of the colored members, was for confiscation. One or two, who opposed it, were saluted by cries of "copperheads." An announcement, by Freeland, of Petersburg that if Congress did not give the negroes lands, they should be taken by violence, was received with applause. The white members did not seem to relish the confiscation idea, and tried to throw cold water on it.

The committee reported an address to the people of the State, and a series of resolutions. The address first recites the wrongs done by the rebels; but says those who fought unwillingly ought to be forgiven. They declare allegiance to the Republican party, and the following platform:

- Honor and rewards to labor. Homes for the homeless, who are willing to work. Property and not polls to bear the burden of taxation. The property of the State must educate the children of the State. Free schools and universal education. It threatens the land monopolists of the State with confiscation, if they oppress the laborers, attempt to control their votes or molest the school teachers and friends of the freedmen.

The resolutions thank the thirty-ninth Congress for its legislation; pledge the Convention to aid in carrying it out, as the only means of early admission to the Union; adopt the principles and platform of the National Republican party; advocate equal rights to all, including the right to hold office; and refuse to support for office any man who does not openly identify himself with the Republican party.

Both the address and resolutions were adopted unanimously.

A resolution favoring confiscation was after a sharp debate, referred.

A resolution, endorsing President Johnson was hooted down.

A mass meeting is now being held on the Capitol square.

Both Houses of the Legislature, to-day, passed the bill consolidating the Norfolk and Petersburg, the Southside and the Virginia and Tennessee Railroads into one road, to be called the Atlantic, Mississippi and Ohio Railroad.
