

28 Freshmen Inducted In JCSU Honor Program

Twenty eight freshmen at Johnson C. Smith University, who have identified by a predicted grade point average as having honors potential have been enrolled in the new Honors Program at the institution. It is envisioned that these students will be afforded unusual opportunities to experience a wide variety of educational endeavors throughout the duration of their college careers.

The first phase of the JCSU Honors Program is the Humanities Component scheduled for this school year. Science-Mathematics and Science Components are being planned for honor students who enter the University in 1974. Other components will include the Sophomore Honors Seminar, Departmental Honors Seminars and Independent Study and In-Course Honors.

The Humanities Component of the Honors Program involves a thoroughly new approach to teaching and learning in the fields of Literature, History, Philosophy and Religion, and the Fine Arts.

These subjects are woven together into a multi-faceted educational investigation of how human beings have lived and thought and created human culture throughout the centuries. In each chronological period, the various aspects of the human achievement are studied both intensively in terms of their symbiotic relationships with each other. This Humanities Component satisfies a major portion of the General Education Requirements of the University.

Dr. Ralph P. Bohn, Director of the Honors Program, has released the following list of enrollees for 1973-74: Brenda P. Adams, Orangeburg, South Carolina; Verida Bellamy, Southport, North Carolina; Brenda Cromwell, Charleston, South Carolina; Carroll Dawson, Bristol, Tenn.; Lewis Frederick, Orangeburg, South Carolina; Romona Green, Petersburg, Virginia; Gary Griggs, Reidsville, North Carolina; Willette Howard, Winston-Salem, North Carolina; Mevella Jenkins, Charleston, South Carolina; Warren Jones, Chicago, Illinois; Cheryl Livey, Smyrna, Ga.; Carol McCullough, Bennettsville, South Carolina; Ronald McFarland, Hartsville, South Carolina; Derek V.
