

Soul Train To Present Lola Falana

Tower of Power and the Pointer Sisters, highlight Soul Train, the nationally popular teen dance show this coming weekend. Lola Falana will put in a cameo appearance. Don Cornelius is host and executive producer of the television program.

The popular weekly teen show can be seen on WCCB-TV, channel 18 Saturday night.

Tower of Power is a strong group of eleven young men from the west coast, who deliver a complete total involvement in the best of a vocal and instrumental performance you've ever seen anywhere. Originating in Oakland, Calif., the group have released two great albums, East Bay Grease and Bump City, which have made the national best-selling charts. They'll sing their popular hits, "So Very Hard to Go," "This Time It's Real," and "What is Hip."

Next up are the Pointer Sisters—four fantastic females "scat-singing" in floppy hats, purple gloves, boas and flower print dresses. The sisters bring real nostalgia to Soul Train. Three months ago they were virtually unknown. But today they are considered the hottest and most sought after singing group in the country. Emphasizing unison singing, the sisters combine old and new jazz and pop singing in the 40's be-bop style. Calling themselves, "a feminine variety show," the sisters harmonize on, "Yes, I Can Can," and "Cloudburst."

Tavares puts the finishing touches on the guest list for the day. They are six young brothers from New Bedford, Massachusetts, who gained their popularity singing, in and around the clubs of Boston. Their first release,

"Check it Out," which they perform on the show, went on Billboard's soul chart after only three weeks on the market. Lola Falana, famed dancer and singer, who is also wife of one of the Tavares, will put in a cameo appearance. Host Don Cornelius moderates a brief question and answer session with the stars, giving the gang an opportunity to get-acquainted with their favorite performers.

corner, a working girl, or even a socialite. In March, Ada will attend the World of Modeling Convention in New York with other Libby Stone graduates, and will enter the WMA Fashion Model of the Year Contest.

Think of it! The month is June and the hour is high noon. And you are waiting in the vestibule of the Church clutching the arm of your father. You are attired in a stunning silk organza gown with a venise lace bodice, a wedding ring collar and a sheer see thru yoke. The Dior sleeves and the empire waist are accented in venise lace and pink pull thru ribbon. Your cathedral length train and your lace head piece add just the touches you need to be the most magnificent and elegant bride of the times.

You should be quite prepared for this long-awaited day if you attend the Bonnie Bridals and Gingsiss Formal Wear Bridal Show to be held at the Charlotte Community Auditorium Saturday.

At that fashion show you will spot your gown. Model Ada Norris will be wearing the gown and you'll be completely enchanted, as she strolls through the auditorium projecting the image of a charming and innocent bride.

Miss Norris, one of the stars of the bridal fashion show is a native of Statesville and has been a resident of Charlotte for two years. Having had the desire to become a model for several years, Ada enrolled in the Libby Stone Finishing and Modeling School when she came to Charlotte.

Her modeling experience includes shows at Best Shop, Bonnie Bridals and the Octoberfest, held last fall. In March, Ada will attend the World of Modeling Convention in New York and will participate in the Fashion Model of the Year Contest.

Aside from modeling Ada sings and helped form a group called the Gospel Carolettes. The four member group sings on week-ends for clubs and Churches.

She is presently employed at Tesco Tele Communications Services in Charlotte.

This vivacious young lady's modeling career should continue to expand for she possesses that certain know-how to woo an audience dressed as a bride, a beach-

Electricity. What's it to you?

Plenty. Electricity is at the heart of just about everything you do. That's why it takes a lot of electricity to keep our neighborhood going. It's too valuable to be wasted. Here are some ideas to help you conserve it around your home...and save some money, too.

Shut out waste.

Seal air leaks and keep windows and doors closed. Add storm windows and doors. Ceiling insulation should be 6 inches deep.

Make sure your heating unit is the right size. Clean or replace filters once a month.

Set your thermostat at the lowest comfortable temperature and leave it there. Properly humidified air will help you feel more comfortable.

Stay in hot water.

Set your water heater thermostat at 140° to 150°. Fix leaky faucets. Run your washing machine, dryer and dishwasher with a full load.

Don't be an oven-peeper.

Use your oven for a whole meal, including vegetables. Cook two meals at once and freeze one. Keep your oven door closed; you lose 20% of the heat every time you open it. Use a fry pan, toaster or other small appliance for small meals.

Be watt-wise.

Turn off lights, TV sets, radios and small appliances when you don't really need them. If you're going away during cold weather, lower your thermostat.
